Mikva urges firm O'Hare noise law

by JOE FRANZ

U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, Monday proposed Chicago adopt a tough noise ordinance to reduce airplane noise around O'Hare Airport.

At a press conference in the Des Plaines Civic Center, Mikva said he made the proposal because the Federal Aviation Administration, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and other federal agencies have failed to control airport noise.

"It is imperative that the City of Chicago provide some help in solving this serious problem," he said. "The FAA has shown too much complacency and the City of Chicago must be more than an absentee landlord of O'Hare."

Mikva said he has appealed to Chicago because Des Plaines, Park Ridge, Niles, Glenview and other communities near the airport are powerless to do anything about noise levels and their "pleas for help have been ignored by the FAA."

"THIS NOISE IS not merely an annoyance," he said. "It is a daily disruptive influence in the lives of thousands of people."

Mikva has suggested Chicago adopt an ordinance requiring airlines using Chicago airports to comply with federal aircraft noise regulations. The federal regulations only apply to aircraft certified by the FAA after 1974, thus making the older, noisier jets exempt, Mikva said.

The new, larger jets, such as the Boeing 747's, Douglas DC-10s and Lockheed L-1011s, meet federal regulations, but Boeing 707s, 727s, and Douglas DC-8s are not required to comply. "These older planes... comprise the majority of aircraft making flights into O'Hare," said Mikva.

The measure proposed by the Congressman would require the number of flights by aircraft not in compliance with federal regulations be reduced 20 per cent in each of the next five years. The result would be that only aircraft in compliance would be allowed to use Chicago airports at the end of the five-year period.

THE PROPOSAL by Mikva is similar to an ordinance recently adopted in Los Angeles, and calls for severe penalties for airlines that do not meet the required standards during the five-year period.

Mikva described the federal regulations as "fairly strict, but not unfair," adding that his proposal would give the airlines adequate time to phase out or modify the engines of the noisier jets.

Mikva said the changes he has proposed in the Chicago ordinance would benefit city residents living near the airports as well as suburban residents. He said he has sent his proposal to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley and all the city's aldermen.

"I don't not consider this to be a confrontation with Mayor Daley," he said. "I would hope that the city would be interested in doing something about this problem."

HE SAID SOME aldermen already have indicated to him that they will support his proposal to amend the ordinance.

"I have had some informal conversation with some Chicago aldermen, but I'm not ready to say who they are," Mikva said. "I have hope that one or more of them will introduce an amendment to the ordinance in the near future."

Pact reached: Wolf to resign with full pension

Des Plaines officials Monday night reached an agreement with Deputy Fire Chief David Wolf that calls for his resignation from the fire department in exchange for a guarantee that he will be granted his full pension.

The agreement puts an end to a legal battle between Wolf and the city over whether he resigned last June.

Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th, chairman of the city code and judiciary committee, said under the agreement reached with Wolf, the city will not pursue further legal action and will grant Wolf full back pay and pension rights in exchange for his immediate resignation.

THE BACK PAY will amount to about $16,800.

The agreement was worked out between City Atty. Charles Hug and Wolf's attorney, Frank O'Reilly. Aldermen considered the matter behind closed doors Monday night before unanimously approving the agreement.

Following the city council's action, Wolf said he was satisfied with the outcome, but refused to say whether he agreed to the settlement to avoid having the city file misconduct charges against him.

Wolf, 45, who is a 23-year veteran of the fire department, said he will be eligible to collect his pension when he reaches age 50.

Wolf, an unsuccessful mayoral candidate in 1973, reportedly has had a number of disagreements with Fire Chief Donald Corey, some pertaining to his job performance and others because of his outside activities.

WOLF FILED a lawsuit against the city last September, asking to be reinstated to his $22,400 a year post and granted full back pay from July 18, when he was removed from the city payroll.

The Cook County Circuit Court in January ruled in Wolf's favor, and the city appealed the case to the Illinois Appellate Court.

The lawsuit centered around the controversial "resignation letter" of June 8 from Wolf to Corey. In the letter, Wolf offered to resign either as chairman of the city's Bicentennial and Historical landmarks commissions or as deputy fire chief.

The letter was written after Corey suspended Wolf, saying he planned to file misconduct charges, and asked for Wolf's dismissal by the fire and police commission.

BLAST-TORN APARTMENT building in Palatine. The 16-unit building at 440 W. Palatine Rd. was ripped apart early Monday by an explosion in the boiler room. Six residents were injured, one seriously. A 22-month-old boy was blown onto the roof by the force of the blast, but escaped with minor cuts. His father, however, was seriously injured.

Six injured in apartment blast

by JOANN VAN WYE

A water heater exploded at the Cedar Garden Apartments in Palatine Monday morning, causing an estimated $75,000 damage, injuring six persons, one seriously, and displacing a dozen other families.

A 22-month-old boy, Javier Herrera, was thrown from his crib onto the roof of the building by the force of the explosion but miraculously escaped injury. The tot — who was rescued by a policeman — and five other persons from the apartment at 440 W. Palatine Rd. were taken to Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

The boy's father, Fabao Herrera, 28, was listed in serious condition Monday in the hospital's intensive care unit after undergoing emergency surgery for back injuries. The mother, Yolanda Herrera, is in fair condition at the hospital.

"WE HAVE DEFINITELY pinpointed it (the explosion) to the boiler, but we still don't have a reason," Palatine Fire Chief Orville Helms said Monday afternoon.

State fire marshals and Palatine Fire Inspector William De Pue continued sifting through the rubble from the blast late Monday, looking for additional clues as to what triggered the explosion.

There had been earlier speculation by firemen that a buildup of natural gas had caused the explosion, which could be felt as far as a mile away.

Helms said gas definitely has been ruled out as the cause, although the explosion ruptured a one-inch gas main serving the building.

THE FORCE of the explosion tore the roof and outer walls off the northeast section of the apartment building, destroying two apartments and damaging several others. Debris was thrown several hundred feet onto parked cars, knocking out windows and bricks in an adjacent apartment unit.

Gas, water, electricity and heat were knocked out of the 16-unit, two-story apartment building, and residents were advised to find other housing. The American Red Cross set up a Disaster Relief Headquarters at the complex and found housing for several residents at the Palatine Howard Johnson's Motel, while others stayed with friends and family.

The explosion was reported at 5:58 a.m. by James Power, 443 W. Wilson St.

"It was a big cloud of blue smoke. The blast was three times worse than thunder... it shook the whole place," Power said.

PALATINE FIREMAN James Erikson, one of five firemen on duty at the Colfax Street Fire Station at the time of the explosion, said he was awakened minutes before the call came in by the force of the blast.

Wit behind Chickenman continues to pun along

by DIANE MERMIGAS

High atop a skyscraper at the edge of Chicago's Gold Coast, Chickenman, the Tooth Fairy and the Masked Minuteman plan their next adventures.

Is it a grand conference of comic book heroes? No, it's just Dick Orkin, the man of a thousand ideas and punch lines, doing his thing.

The Mount Prospect resident thinks of characters and gives them ridiculous names and funny lines. He puts it all on paper and then reads it in a recording studio.

Later, it is aired as a humorous feature series or a 60-second commercial on radio stations throughout the country.

AND THAT'S HOW Dick Orkin helps companies sell their products and helps radio stations attract listeners. That's how he makes his living — being a funny man who continually sparks laughter from the American public with his zany sense of humor.

Few people know him by name or on sight. But, when they hear his voice, they know just who he is. He's Chickenman and the Tooth Fairy and even Friendly Bob Adams.

He's a lot of people, all products of his own imagination. In fact, one can never be sure who he'll be when he starts talking.

"Hi there. I'm Mel Rogers, a roving reporter asking Pacific Southern Airways passengers how they like the midnight flights between San Francisco and Los Angeles," says Bert Berdis, Orkin's writing-performer counterpart in the Dick Orkin Creative Service. Berdis is always the straight man.

"NOTHING CAN BEAT these bargain flights. It doesn't pay me to get all bundled up and start flying here myself. By the time I get there, the sun's coming up and people are on their way to work," said Orkin, portraying a vampire who is seated on the airplane with his "mummy."

The duo pokes fun at everyday situations. They gain listener attention with humor and skillfully include the serious sales information about the product or service.

Dramatizing commercials is a change of pace for Orkin.

"I started with the characters and the series like Chickenman and more recently, the Masked Minuteman. But, the same things that people liked in those characters can be applied to the characters we create for commercials," Orkin said.

"IT'S A GROWING AREA for the kind of work we do. Radio is a perfect medium for our work because it's so personal." (Continued on Sect. 3 Page 8)

Mikva urges tough airport noise curbs

U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, Monday urged Chicago to adopt a tougher noise ordinance to help reduce airplane noise around O'Hare Airport. "The FAA (Federal Aviation Administration) has shown too much complacency and the City of Chicago must be more than an absentee landlord of O'Hare," Mikva said at the Des Plaines Civic Center, 1420 Miner St. Mikva said he appealed to Chicago because Des Plaines, Park Ridge, Niles, Glenview and other communities ringing the airport are powerless to do anything about noise levels and their "pleas for help have been ignored by the FAA."

State vetoes rail station bid

The state has rejected Mount Prospect's request for $150,000 to build a new commuter railroad station. Mayor Robert D. Teichert said the Illinois Dept. of Transportation reported there are no funds available under a $6.8 million commuter rail station improvement and construction program. Teichert asked for state funding in February after Arlington Heights was granted $200,000 to construct a new commuter rail station.

B'Ginnings suspension reduced

The Illinois Liquor Control Commission has reduced Schaumburg Pres. Raymond Kessell's 20-day liquor suspension for B'Ginnings Ltd., 1227 E. Golf Rd., and ruled the lounge must close for only three days. The suspension reduction, which will close the lounge May 3-5, came following an appeal of Kessell's ruling by B'Ginnings owners. Kessell ordered the suspension after village liquor commission hearings. During the hearings, six persons, including a Schaumburg police detective, testified they were beaten by doormen at the club. Kessell also took private testimony from two minors who alleged they were "sexually approached" by B'Ginnings employees. "The commissioners felt the evidence didn't merit a 20-day suspension," Thomas Murphy, executive director of the state liquor commission, said Monday. The commission vote was 2 to 1 in favor of the three-day suspension.

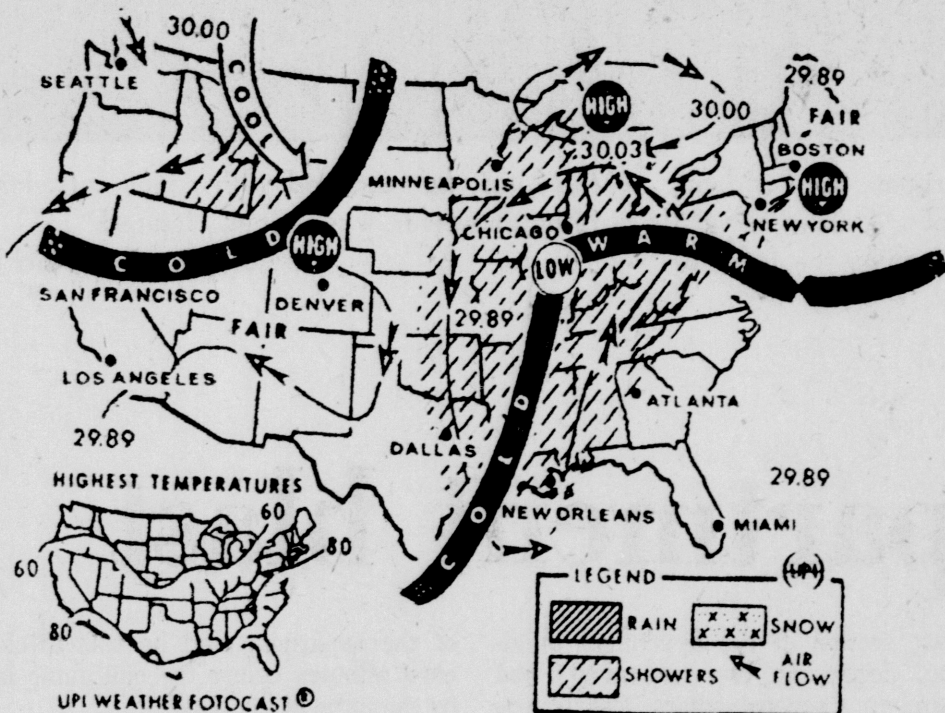

New Trier teachers ratify contract

New Trier High School teachers Monday night voted unanimously to ratify a contract agreement between New Trier High School Dist. 203 and the Illinois Education Assn. which represents the teachers. A tentative agreement was reached Monday afternoon after about eight hours of continuous negotiations from 9:30 a.m., said Joe Taylor, an IEA representative. Schools Supt. Roderick Bickert said negotiators for both sides unanimously agreed to the settlement, which was reached through "a simple but creative approach."

Wheeling drops Motz job offer

Wheeling officials have withdrawn their offer to Clarence Motz to become village manager. Village Atty. John Burke said Monday a telegram has been sent to Motz informing him of the board's decision. Burke said the withdrawal of the job offer was "based on the discrepancies in your resume and your failure to clarify the same." Last week trustees said Motz falsified information on his job application listing a false age and listing a nonexistent college degree.

Bank VP posts bond; date for arraignment due

Bruce H. Dodds, First Arlington National Bank vice president under federal indictment for embezzlement and misapplication of bank funds, posted $4,500 personal recognizance bond Monday.

The bank was the target of federal investigators and that several lawsuits seeking millions of dollars in damages have been filed against the bank for alleged mismanagement.

A date for arraignment on the four-count indictment has not yet been set. If convicted, Dodds faces a maximum sentence of five years imprisonment and a $5,000 fine on each count.

The charges stem from four cashier's checks totaling $18,000 which the government charges Dodds obtained in 1971 without paying for them.

Dodds, 30, of 727 S. Belmont Ave., Arlington Heights, is on leave of absence from the First Arlington National Bank until his case is resolved. He also has resigned as auditor at the Tollway-Arlington National Bank; finance chairman of the reelection campaign of State Rep. Virginia MacDonald, R-Arlington Heights; and as a member of the Arlington Heights Police Pension Board.

The indictment is part of an on-going investigation of the operation of First Arlington National Bank. Assistant U.S. Atty. David McGuire said he sought Dodds' indictment last week because of a five-year statute of limitations on the alleged offense.

Hike called show of strength

GNP jump surprises economists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Gross National Product surprised economists Monday by taking a 7.5 per cent jump upward in the first quarter of the year for its greatest show of strength since the recession ended last spring.

The "real" Gross National Product, adjusted for inflation, showed strong increases in all major categories, the Commerce Department said.

In its report Monday, the department said inflation as measured by the GNP implicit price deflator fell to 3.7 per cent, the lowest point in 3½ years. Last quarter, it was 6.8 per cent.

Economists — in and out of the government — had forecast a more moderate advance in the nation's total output of goods and services, probably in the neighborhood of 5.5 to 6 per cent. In the last quarter of 1975, the real GNP or output stripped of inflation rose 5 per cent.

"The growth rate was more than what we had anticipated," said Maynard Comiez, acting chief economist for the Commerce Department. "It is a lot more than normal growth."

However, Comiez said he did not believe the strong first quarter pace was so rapid as to stymie the current economic recovery.

"This is not a boom, but a good performance," he said.

For the first time since the recession ended last April, all categories of the GNP increased both before and after adjustment for inflation. In the previous three quarters various sectors, particularly inventories, had either risen or fallen.

Commerce said the real GNP was estimated at an annual rate of $1.238 trillion in the first three months of 1976, up from $1.216 trillion in the final quarter of 1975.

There were two primary factors in the large gain: a swell in inventories — saler-ready goods held in reserve by merchants, wholesalers and manufacturers — and the lowest inflation rate since the third quarter of 1972.

Comiez expressed a degree of caution in predicting future inflation figures for this year.

"The price figures are certainly encouraging," he said, "but it is questionable how long we can sustain that level."

He noted food and fuel prices, which were primarily responsible for the low inflation rate, are expected to begin climbing this summer.

GNP before adjustment for inflation was estimated at $1.616 trillion, up 11.5 per cent from the $1.573 trillion rate in the previous quarter.

Ford praises Syria's role in Lebanon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford has dropped his blanket opposition to all military intervention in Lebanon and has praised Syria's role there, a White House spokesman said Monday.

"The United States favors a peaceful settlement (in Lebanon) and is opposed to outside military intervention that could lead to a Middle East confrontation or war," Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen told a White House news briefing.

"Syria has been playing a constructive role," Nessen said.

Heretofore, White House spokesmen, when asked Ford's position on Lebanon, had said the United States opposed all military intervention. Until Monday there was no qualification.

Asked if his statement Monday signaled a change in U.S. policy, Nessen said:

"You should look at the nature and intent of what Syria has been doing and the intent and nature of what they've done."

In an interview with the editors of the Hartke-Hanks Newspapers, Ford said both Syria and Israel acted

"very responsibly" in the Lebanese crisis.

"And if we can get that constitution revised, signed by President Franjiah and the new President elected and get a central government again in Lebanon, then the restraint Syria has had and the restraint that Israel has had will have gotten the Middle East off one of the most potential, volatile situations in recent months there," he added.

Syria has moved troops into Lebanon to strengthen its policy of halting the civil war between Moslem and Christian forces in the country. Israel, according to diplomatic sources, had threatened to invade southern Lebanon if Syria — a key foe of the Jewish State — massed too great a force in southern Lebanese territory on the Israeli northern frontier.

Diplomats said the United States has been acting to persuade Israel to refrain from countering the Syrian armed intervention.

They said the Ford administration has been successful in this, although Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin faceted domestic pressure to move his forces.

Nessen told reporters Ford's peace-seeking envoy to Lebanon, Ambassador Dean Brown, has been in contact with all parties except the Palestine Liberation Organization.

In Lebanon, meantime, Syrian, Palestinian and Lebanese soldiers agreed to forge a joint "deterrent force" to police the latest civil war truce, but a government source said only Syrian pressure could guarantee peace.

The pirate radio station of the right-wing Phalangist party said the new cease-fire, the 28th in the year-long civil war, would officially begin at midnight.

"All warring factions have agreed on a cease-fire effective midnight tonight," the brief announcement said. It gave no further details.

After a weekend of steady machine gun fire and mortar and artillery duels throughout the capital, clashes across the "green line" dividing Moslem and Christian Beirut slowed to scattered sniper fire.

Hijacker killed by FBI agents

A hijacker boarding a private airliner with a pistol and a shotgun at the heads of two hostages for a flight to Mexico was shot and killed Monday by FBI agents hiding on the plane. Roger Lentz, 31, a grain elevator employee, was shot at least six times inside the parked 110-passenger Convair 990 at Stapleton International Airport in Denver, FBI agent Ted Rosack said. Neither hostage was injured. Rosack said Lentz was fleeing criminal charges in Nebraska and had recently threatened suicide because of marital problems. He lived in Marquette, Neb.

Court to rule on EPA powers

The Supreme Court agreed Monday to examine the issue of how far the Environmental Protection Agency can go in regulating discharge of wastes into the nation's waters. Under challenge by eight major chemical companies is the EPA's authority to set maximum discharge levels for sulphuric acid plants. Another issue is whether EPA regulations should be reviewed at the federal district court level by courts of appeal. The chemical companies argued that the agency is empowered only to lay down broad discharge guidelines, and not the specific maximum levels set by EPA administrator Russell Train.

White House interior decorator slain

Michael Greer, a high society interior decorator who redecorated portions of the White House for the Eisenhower, Kennedy and Nixon Administrations, was found Monday apparently strangled to death. Greer, 58, was found in his bed in his posh fifth floor apartment on Park Ave. in New York shortly after 9 a.m. by a friend. His feet were bound with a scarf and his hands were bloody. A spokesman at the Fourth Homicide Zone said Greer apparently was strangled. Police declined to speculate on a motive for the slaying.

Navy ship revamping cost at $80.2 billion

Revamping the Navy's depleted fleet of 482 active ships to 600 by 1990 will probably cost the taxpayer $80.2 billion during the coming decade, according to a Library of Congress study released Monday. Inflation could add another $17.7 billion to the cost, the report said, noting that just maintaining a Navy of 500 ships would cost $62.4 billion during the same 10-year period. Defense specialists generally agree the Navy, at its smallest size since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941, is at a critical crossroads, with its future role and value both uncertain and undetermined.

Trial planned for Isabel Peron

Deposed President Isabel Peron will soon be tried by a tribunal of retired military officers for mishandling public funds during her 21-month rule, military sources said Monday. If convicted, the sources said the 45-year-old widow of Juan D. Peron might be exiled, or ordered to serve part of a sentence in an Argentine jail.

China in 'excellent' shape: Hua

China's new Premier Hua Kuo-feng said Monday the ouster of Teng Hsiao-ping has left his country in "excellent" shape to carry out the "revolutionary line in foreign affairs" of Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung. Speaking at a Peking banquet for visiting Egyptians, Hua praised Cairo for breaking its friendship treaty with the Soviet Union but warned Egypt to beware of retaliation by the "ruthless and wicked superpower," the New China News Agency reported.

India-Pakistan relations to resume

India has offered to resume diplomatic relations with Pakistan, broken during the bloody 1971 war that created the new nation of Bangladesh, a foreign office spokesman said Monday. Prime Minister Indira Gandhi made the offer in a letter to Pakistani Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto April 11, the spokesman said. India decided Thursday to upgrade relations with China by sending an ambassador to Peking, a move expected to end nearly 14 years of rivalry and border clashes between the two Asian giants.

Israeli troops clash with Arab protest crowds

JERICHO, Israeli-occupied Jordan (UPI) — Israeli troops in major West Bank towns Monday clashed with Arab crowds protesting a march by thousands of Israeli rightists. One Arab was killed and three others wounded.

A military spokesman said a patrol of border guards came under a hail of stones in a narrow alley in the Casba quarter of Nablus 28 miles north of here and fired warning shots that killed one person and wounded two others.

The Arabs were protesting a two-day Zionist mass march proclaiming Israel's right to rule the West Bank, seized from Jordan almost nine years ago, and to establish Jewish settlements there.

Arab sources said the Israeli troops in Nablus charged into schools, broke windows, threw tear gas and pulled girl students by the hair to break up the protests.

One of the schools was the Al Mahed Adini religious seminary, where the sources said Israeli troops broke desks, cupboards and windows and hit some students.

A fourth Arab was wounded in Jenin when Israeli troops, firing warning shots, waded into a crowd of about 100 Arabs chanting pro-Palestinian slogans.

Occupation authorities clamped curfews on Nablus and Jenin and shut down the center of Jericho, hauling dozens of Arabs into custody for staging a sit-in against the Zionist march.

Rock-throwing and burning-tire barricades also were reported in Tul-karm and Jericho, the finishing point for the 20-mile, two-day march by an estimated 20,000 Jews.

Rabbi Moshe Levinger, leader of Gush Emunim, called on the government to lift restrictions of settlement on the West Bank, which his group and others claim God promised the forefathers of the Jewish people.

Postal service wants bigger annual subsidy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Warning of the "disastrous" effect of higher mail rates, postal union officials urged Congress Monday to give the Postal Service a bigger annual subsidy.

Testifying before the Senate Post Office Committee, the union officials said it was vital Congress approve legislation to provide the Postal Service with higher subsidies to prevent future rate hikes while a reorganization study is conducted.

Francis S. Filbey, president of the American Postal Workers Union, said his union supported a bill before the committee to give the post office "a proper subsidy to enable it to continue to operate without ever-increasing postage rate increases, and continuing cuts in service to the American people."

Filbey warned "To continue to raise postage rates, and continue to further eliminate postal services to the public can only bring the USPS to a disastrous end."

Rubber Workers ready to strike

COLOMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — The United Rubber Workers union Monday prepared to call a nationwide strike against the Big Four of the rubber industry and to institute a world-wide boycott of Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. products.

The present master contract with Firestone, Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., B. F. Goodrich and Uniroyal covers 70,000 workers at 47 plants throughout the country and expires at midnight Tuesday.

Negotiations continued Monday in Cleveland with Firestone, Cincinnati with Goodyear, New York with Uniroyal and here with Goodrich. A news blackout was in effect.

URW President Pete Bommarito met Saturday with about 60 top union officials from throughout the country in a strategy session.

Bommarito said following the meeting he had been given authorization to call a selected strike against one of the tire making firms or against all four and indicated that if a strike is called it would be against all four.

The first industry outside of the rubber industry to be hit by a URW strike would be auto production.

A URW source said the union had information indicating that the auto plants did not have the stockpiles they said they had on hand.

General Motors Corp., Ford and Chrysler all indicated they would be able to continue production for about 30 days on most models if a strike did materialize.

"But that's not what we understand," said the URW source. "We understand their stockpiles are pretty well depleted."

Bommarito said one of the reasons the boycott would be called against Firestone was that it supplied GM with 30 per cent of its tires and Ford with 20 per cent of that firm's tires.

Bommarito said he had the support of organized labor in the United States in the boycott and would get the support of labor in Europe later this month.

March sales in the auto industry jumped 50 per cent over 1975 and were the best for any month since November 1973 when the Arab oil embargo was instituted.

The auto industry has a relatively low 53 day supply of cars which means all cars already built, in transit or in dealer lots would last 53 days at the current sales pace but that sales pace is expected to quicken in late spring and summer.

Patty gains weight, health improving

• Patricia Hearst is gaining weight but her right lung still is partially collapsed, her doctor said Monday. There was no indication when she will be released from the hospital. Dr. John J. Prendergast, a specialist in internal medicine, said the 22-year-old newspaper heiress is undergoing further tests for a possible liver ailment. Tight security is in effect at the hospital because of daily death threats.

• President Ford said Monday he is running behind Ronald Reagan in the May 1 Texas primary but is "still hopeful of closing the gap." Ford will return to the Lone Star state next week for a final round of campaigning. . . . Henry Jackson, the only major Democrat campaigning in Pennsylvania eight days before its primary, said Monday human rights should be a major concern of U.S. foreign policy.

• Singer Marie Osmond, 16, and her mother Olive, sustained minor injuries when their car rammed the back of a tractor-trailer during the weekend. Miss Osmond was treated for cuts and an eye injury before being released. Her mother was admitted to the hospital for a chest injury, but her condition was listed a good.

• Convicted Watergate burglar Ber-

"That guy looked so much like me that I looked around to see if anybody recognized me," he said.

• Mimic Frank Gorshin said Monday he will be sidelined for five weeks following knee surgery performed after a skiing mishap in Utah last week. Gorshin was operated on for severed left knee ligaments and damaged cartilage at Century City Hospital in Hollywood. Gorshin had to cancel dates in Chicago, Dallas and Evansville, Ind. He said: "Believe me, this is the last time I'll mimic Jean Claude Killy."

Blast scene 'just like war'

by DOUG RAY

An hour after the devastating blast, Irene Tracey, 73, was sitting in the safety of her daughter's house in Palatine. She was shaking a bit, her lips trembling as she unraveled the story. "It woke me out of a sleep. It was a terrible crash. I just thought — my God, we are being hit by a tornado or something."

She walked to her front door, only a few feet from where the blast ripped through the next apartment. Bricks, in a heap, were everywhere. Cars in a nearby parking lot were covered with what used to be inside the apartments. Dozens of windows were blown apart.

"EVERYONE WAS yelling for help," she said. "They were crying, terrible cries, like a nightmare."

Another witness said a mother couldn't find her child. "They just kept screaming. It was like a war, they just kept yelling for help."

Paramedics helped the injured, and firemen sorted through the rubble. "There was a fireman trying to climb up to the roof to get somebody," Mrs. Tracey said. "Another fireman was carrying a little blonde girl in his arms — she looked 20 or 21."

"The firemen just kept saying get out, get out. I guess they felt sorry for me because I'm an old lady and I was shaking. They took me to another apartment where I called my daughter. She came to pick me up in a few minutes. But I think I'm more shook up now that I'm beginning to realize what happened."

LATER MONDAY, firemen continued sorting through the debris. Insulation, which was shredded into tiny confetti-like pieces, hung from naked walls. Half of a bedroom dresser was on the second floor. It was the only piece of furniture left. Blood had spattered on a nearby sidewalk.

There was a single apartment between Mrs. Tracy and the holocaust. "That apartment protected me," she said, "and God protected me."

This building had been Irene Tracey's home for three years, and she liked it.

"As of now I'll go back," she said. "In fact, I'm more than willing to go back. An accident is an accident, you know."

Elk Grove group seeks new quarters

Thriving food co-op shuts down

by TOM VON MALDER

For one year the Elk Grove Consumers' Organization's food co-op successfully battled rising food prices and obtained quality meat and produce for its 80 member families.

Members said they were able to save from 25 to 30 per cent on the costs of most food items and were able to buy butcher-quality meats at grocery store prices.

The concept of buying food in quantity and directly from a wholesaler, without middlemen, worked fine for the group which includes families from Elk Grove Village, Arlington Heights, Prospect Heights, Buffalo Grove, Bensenville and other area communities.

It worked fine, that is, until recently when the co-op lost its Elk Grove distribution center.

"OUR CO-OP HAS folded temporarily because we have not found a new distribution center," said Carol Decker of Bensenville, one of the co-op's two coordinators.

The group had operated out of the First Baptist Church of Elk Grove Village until a change in pastors brought about the decision by the church to terminate the lease, Mrs. Decker said.

Hoeck heads Dist. 214 Board

Donald Hoeck was elected president of the High School Dist. 214 Board of Education Monday night.

Hoeck, 611 W. Berkley St., Arlington Heights, is employed by General Telephone and Electronics. He was elected to the board in 1973 and reelected to a three-year term April 10.

Hoeck was named president by a 6-to-0 vote, replacing outgoing Board Pres. Eugene Artemenko. Board member Richard Bachhuber was retained as board secretary.

A certificate of appreciation was given to board member Warren Schabinger Monday, thanking him for his three years on the board. Schabinger was elected to the board in 1973 and did not seek reelection this year.

Historical society banquet

The Des Plaines Historical Society will hold its ninth annual meeting and banquet Sunday, May 16, at the Casa Royale, 783 Lee St.

A social hour with cash bar will begin at 6 p.m. followed by dinner at 7 p.m. The business meeting will start at 8 p.m. with reports from officers and the election of directors and officers for the coming year.

The Dancing Darlings of St. Mary's Church will entertain with their "Roaring Twenties Review."

Tickets are $8 per person for the banquet, and are available by calling the historical society, 297-4912, before May 7. Persons planning to attend only the business meeting and program also are asked to contact the society office before May 12.

"It was an internal affair of the church. They gave us 60 days notice. It is nothing we would or want to argue with," Mrs. Decker said.

No church officials could be reached for comment.

Because of the group's size and the desire for a central location, the co-op officials asked churches, clubs and other organizations in Arlington Heights and Elk Grove Village for space. All but one request went unheeded.

THE SOUTHWESTMINSTER United Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights, was willing to give the co-op room for its distribution center, but Arlington Heights Building Comr. Martin Munsen told them they would need a land-use variation.

"This type of operation was not allowable in the single-family district in which the church was located," Munsen said Monday.

Mrs. Decker said the co-op, a non-profit group, could not afford the $200 hearing fee required to seek the variation from the village's zoning board of appeals. "We just didn't have the money," she said.

The Elk Grove Village VFW was willing to rent the co-op space, but did not want to commit itself to a fixed schedule, she said. She added that the two freezers which must be stored at the distribution center can cause space problems, too.

"Churches are afraid to get involved unless they have membership involved. They used to be more community oriented," Mrs. Decker said.

MRS. DECKER said she does not believe the business community is responsible for the co-op's difficulty in relocating its distribution center.

"I don't think in our particular case it was pressure from the business community. It can't be the size of the co-op, it must be the concept that frightens local governments," she said.

The Elk Grove Consumers' Organization co-op is a closed one, she said, which means only members can purchase food through it. Those members pay $15 to join and give four to six hours a month work, such as taking orders, packing the food and other needed jobs. Can and paper goods are not obtained through the co-op.

"It is astounding how much better the quality is than at the grocery store, especially with produce," Mrs. Decker said.

But until they can find another distribution center — about 600 to 800 square feet of space — the co-op member will be doing all their shopping at the neighborhood grocery, battling inflation once more.

call with two engines, and three ambulances. Assistance also was provided by Rolling Meadows, Hoffman Estates and Arlington Heights firemen.

Madolyn Schively, 21, was trapped between the first and second floors when firemen arrived. She was pulled out from the building within five minutes and taken to the hospital, where she was treated and released.

Also treated and released were Katherine Pepich, 22, and Charles Healy, 32.

PALATINE POLICE assisted with the evacuation of the apartment building and an adjacent building in the complex.

"We didn't know if there would be a buildup of gas," Deputy Police Chief Frank Ortiz said.

"I haven't seen anything like this since the war. It's remarkable that no one was killed," Ortiz said.

Police remained at the complex during the day, cordoning off the damaged area from hundreds of spectators and directing traffic.

NORTHERN ILLINOIS Gas Co. crews turned off gas to the building within an hour of the explosion, and also inspected gas mains in a two-block area for possible leaks.

Palatine Village Mgr. Anton H. Harwig said the village would make a thorough inspection of the building to make sure it is structurally sound before residents are allowed to return to the apartments.

A routine inspection of the boilers in the other four buildings in the complex built in 1962 also will be made, said Henry "Pete" Apida, Palatine building director. He said there had been no citations for building violations issued or complaints from residents at the complex before the explosion.

Javier Herrera, 22 months old, is a little scratched, a little scared but also a miraculous survivor.

Javier was sleeping in his crib when an explosion ripped through an apartment building at 440 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine, at 5:54 a.m. Monday.

The blast, which smashed off a corner of the brick building, sent the child sailing into the air, still atop the mattress. He and the mattress landed unharmed back on the roof, just 10 feet away from the edge.

THE FORCE OF the explosion sent twisted metal through a wooden door of an adjacent building and punched a three-inch hole into the bricks.

Firemen at the scene speculated the toddler's mattress had acted "just like a springboard or a trampoline" in absorbing the blast when the child was blown in the air and back to the roof safely.

Javier was scratched and shaken but safe.

Sgt. Gordon Mosby of the Palatine police, had rushed to the building as the reports, described by a fireman as sounding "like the end of the world," still were coming over the radio.

AS MOSBY MOVED to aid the victim, he was told there was a baby on the roof of the shattered building.

Working his way through the wreckage, Mosby pulled down a sheet of plywood to open a path to the attic. Looking around, he found a window frame, its glass gone from the explosion, and used it as a ladder to climb into the attic.

He crawled past the edge of the roof, sheared off by the blast, and over the peak. There, sitting up, just 10 feet from the edge was Javier still wearing his T-shirt and diapers.

Mosby picked up the toddler and carried him back to the roof's peak, where he called to the firemen below for a ladder.

JAVIER WAS RUSHED to Northwestern Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, where he was treated for minor cuts.

"We were all surprised," said a cousin, Nancy Noguera, who along with her mother were helping care for the child at their home in Vernon Hills.

"He has scratches on his hands, arms and some on his face, but he's pretty good," she said.

A spokeswoman at the hospital where Javier had been treated said, "You know who you should really talk to, don't you? You should really find his guardian angel."

Chemical spill bill supported

Disaster was narrowly averted last week in Dwight, Ill., where a truck carrying a highly toxic gas began leaking.

The town's 3,800 residents were evacuated quickly. These included 83 elderly patients of a nursing home, school children and thousands of ordinary citizens. Because of the effective action taken by officials, no resident of the town was injured by the bromine gas leaking from exploding canisters in the truck.

Because the truck driver was the only casualty, the Dwight incident is likely to be forgotten. People remember disasters, not near-disasters.

That is unfortunate, because things might have been far different. The truck might have been in a heavily populated area — perhaps on Wolf Road in the middle of Wheeling or along the Northwest Tollway in Hoffman Estates. It could have happened at a time when schools, shopping centers and hospitals could not be evacuated quickly.

It could have been a memorable disaster.

Chemical leaks from trucks have occurred in the metropolitan area. Two years ago a truck passing through Mundelein created a hazard when an unsecured drum containing a toxic chemical was punctured by a stake inside the truck. The resulting fumes sent a dozen people to the hospital.

There is a bill before the Illinois House that would reduce the threat of chemical spills. It would apply the same safety precautions to trucks transporting chemicals within the state as now are applied to interstate trucking.

The bill has been bottled up in a subcommittee. Its sponsor, Rep. Samuel C. Maragos, Chicago, plans to file a request to have it considered as emergency legislation when the House returns from its Easter recess.

We believe the bill should be approved quickly, and we call on area representatives to give it their support.

Water crisis: residents can limit demand

Water. You turn the knob and it comes out of the faucet.

Municipal officials say that area residents must become more aware of the coming water crisis in the Northwest suburbs and have suggested several ways that usage can be cut in the home.

According to a U.S. Geological Survey about 41 per cent of the water is flushed down the toilet while another 37 per cent is used for bathing and washing.

Public works directors call for residents to stop wasting water by spending too much time in the shower, or by senseless flushing away such things as cigarette butts. They ask residents to fix all leaky faucets and pipes, as one 1/32 of an inch diameter leak will cause a loss of 12,333 gallons of water over a two-month period.

We support these efforts and encourage residents to join in the fight to preserve water.

Court divided, but public approves some executions

By NEA/London Economist News Service

WASHINGTON — Landmark as it was in some ways, the decision of the United States supreme court in the case of Furman vs. Georgia in 1972 did not settle the future of capital punishment, but postponed settlement. So the subject has come back to trouble the court this spring. Oral arguments were heard two weeks ago and a decision is expected in May or June.

Divided then as it is today, the court in 1972 refused to pronounce the death penalty constitutional or unconstitutional in itself. The justices found the penalty indefensible because of the random and unpredictable manner in which the existing laws applied it. This left it apparently open to the states and the federal government to reinstate capital punishment if they could find ways to codify its application which would satisfy the court.

Thanks in part to pressure from public opinion, in part to a special effort by the National Association of Attorneys General to advise the states on how to go about it, 35 states have since passed new laws.

The last official execution in the United States was carried out in Colorado in 1967. Most of the 631 men and women who were awaiting execution at the moment of the Furman ruling have since had their sentences changed to imprisonment for life or a lesser term. Under the new or revised laws, however, sentences of death have gone on being imposed, and 529 people are under sentences of death at the present moment. This raises a ghastly theoretical prospect of a bloodbath if the present interim prohibition is abruptly lifted.

Experience in recent times suggests that such a national bloodbath is improbable. While a householder questioned by a public opinion pollster is very apt to say that the death penalty should be used to put down crime, and while political leaders often subscribe to that attitude in their speeches, different thoughts weigh on a governor when the piece of paper, ordering the executioner into service, comes before him for his signature.

Prosecutors are often willing to accept a lesser charge than murder for an accused person, who, in turn, will sometimes agree to plead guilty to that charge rather than face trial on a capital one. Such agreements, which are very common, save the judicial system a huge expenditure of time, effort and sometimes of money. They spare juries a lot of pain, and they lift the terror of death from the accused. However, they also leave his guilt or innocence somewhat uncertain when he is safely tucked away in jail.

As measured by the Gallup polls, public approval of the death penalty fell off sharply in the 1950s and 1960s, but then rose again — from 49 per cent in 1971 to 64 per cent in 1974. This does not indicate any general enthusiasm for putting offenders to death, except perhaps the perpetrators of particularly ghastly and theatrical crimes, those that win publicity. As the legal philosopher Dr. Hugo Bredau observed, "It is unclear that the public wants executions. What they seem to want is an occasional execution."

Precisely this public demand, that the death penalty should be kept in being but not applied too often, puts the supreme court in the intellectual difficulty it is struggling with now. The judges and governors were told by the court four years ago that they could not go on arbitrarily letting people off and capriciously choosing who was to be killed. The state legislatures have responded by trying to codify which murders or which rapes or which armed robberies should be punished by death, and which should not, so that judges and juries are not burdened with freedom of choice.

In the lead in the effort, not only to save the Furman judgment from reversal, but also to push the federal law a stage further so that the death penalty can be definitively ruled out, is the Legal Defense Fund of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Naturally the association has a body of penal reformers, whose chief spokesman in this instance is Prof. Anthony Amsterdam of Stanford law school to back it up with sophisticated argument, but its basic interest in the question is simple.

If society wants not an automatic use of the death penalty for certain kinds of criminal act, but an occasional exemplary execution to keep potential malefactors off balance, then the choice of fearful examples is likely to fall chiefly on types, including racial types, that are felt to be expendable.

Poor black people get more death sentences than their share. That is still, when punishments come to be meted out, more the rule than not.

Board's library stance liked

Thanks to Mayor Robert Teichert and the village trustees for giving the taxpayers a chance to express their opinion on at least part of the library's "out of touch" budget request. I feel their action was most responsive to the wishes of the citizens of our village. I hope they will not change their position as a result of their meeting Thursday with the library board. Let them take their case, if they have one, to the people. Turning now to Trustee Wattenberg's proposed monthly newsletter — we do not need it. We have two fine local newspapers, the Herald and Mount Prospect Times that provide excellent and adequate coverage of the board's considerations, especially on controversial items. The Suburban Tribune section of the Chicago Tribune adds its voice to keeping us very well informed.

During your consideration of the village budget at your March 23 meeting, one of the positions Trustee Rhea recommended eliminating was the public relations clerk at a savings of about $10,000. Of course our village manager protested, as expected, any elimination of his force, and the board saw fit to uphold his position. Now, Trustee Minton, as quoted in part by the April 8 Herald on the proposed newsletter, stated, "Besides we pay about $10,000 annually for the services of a public relations clerk. He or she had best have something to do." I would suggest the board again consider elimination of this position rather than add an additional $10,000 plus for publication of the newsletter. The later estimate is from the April 11 Sunday Tribune article on this subject.

Lighter side

When pictures talk back...

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Some of the behavior attributed to Richard Nixon in the book "The Final Days" may not fit your concept of how a President should act.

Yet, truth to tell, many if not most if not all of our chief executives have done things that might be considered, ah, eccentric.

Permit me to quote a passage from a new book about Lyndon Johnson by Doris Kearns:

"... Politicians and bureaucrats were called upon to swim naked with the President in the White House pool; members of the cabinet and White House staff were compelled to accompany their boss into the bathroom and continue their conversation."

HMMMM. AN ANALYTICAL psychologist probably could have a field day with that. But I wonder if such presidential quirks really warrant all the attention they are getting.

Much, for example, has been made of the report that shortly before his resignation Nixon went around saying goodbye to the portraits of his predecessors hanging on the White House walls. To me, that doesn't necessarily seem aberrant.

Possibly the reason I feel empathetic is because I often speak to pictures myself.

In the foyer of my home there's a blown up snapshot of myself in a World War II uniform. When I go out alone, it is my custom to toss the photo a little salute and murmur "so long, old soldier."

Some people might draw a distinction between addressing one's own image and directing a few remarks to the portraits of bygone presidents. It's a distinction without a difference.

If the picture in my foyer were of Millard Fillmore, I'd still give some sort of parting utterance.

NOW PICTURE yourself in Nixon's shoes. Your world is crashing down around you. As you pace the corridor, perhaps with drink in hand, and pass a portrait of Franklin Pierce, what could be more natural than to raise your glass in its direction and ruefully remark, "They're giving me the shaft, old chum?"

People talk to dogs don't they? Nowadays, for Pete's sake, they even talk to plants. So what's so anomalous about talking to pictures?

While there are no statistics on the matter that I'm aware of, I daresay the practice is fairly commonplace. In fact, I think I'll take a little poll.

Check the appropriate statement below and return to me in care of the White House:

() Yes, I talk to pictures occasionally and see nothing peculiar about it.

() I've never spoken to a picture in my life and would feel like a fool if I did.

If you answered affirmatively, there's no need to feel defensive about it. The only cause for concern is when the pictures start talking back.

Vitamins essential to good health

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Bill Crowley, 12, of Santa Maria, Calif., for his question:

ARE CARROTS REALLY GOOD FOR YOUR EYES?

A bicycle needs wheels to get from here to there; a fire needs fuel to keep it burning. Your body performs hundreds of miracles every day with chemicals obtained from the food you eat — and it needs vitamins to make things work properly. If this or that vitamin is missing, something goes awry. A wound may refuse to heal, bones may not grow properly, or your skin may get scruddy or scaly. When vitamins are absent for a long time, the entire body suffers.

Your total daily vitamin requirement weighs less than one bite of your daily diet. But a lack of these important substances can cause miserable health problems. Vitamins do not provide the body with fuel or building materials. These things come from the proteins, fats and carbohydrates we eat. Yet, without vitamins, the body cannot make proper use of fuel or body-building foods.

Scientists have discovered 20 or so vitamins that are important to good health. A few of these can be manufactured by the body, but not in the quantities the body needs. The best way to obtain vitamins, then, is to eat the right amounts of proper foods. This is a positive way to make sure that all the daily requirements are met.

One of the vitamins important to your body is vitamin A. It plays a vital part in bone growth and maintaining healthy skin. A really big job for vitamin A is to help your eyes see in dim light. For example, if you have been out in the bright sunlight and come into a darkened room, your eyes must adjust to the dimness. If your eyes cannot adjust, your ability to see is diminished. Persons that do not get enough vitamin A may also be subject to other eye disorders.

Now, what food do you suppose is a good source of vitamin A? Right — carrots. Cooked or raw, fresh or frozen, carrots provide our body not only with vitamin A but also with iron, sugar and vitamin B1. Other foods containing this necessary vitamin are spinach, sweet potatoes, milk, liver, eggs and green and yellow vegetables.

One vitamin, however, is not the secret to good health. Many vitamins are needed to keep the body working the way it should. The plant world offers most of them in tasty fresh fruits, vegetables and cereals. Other vitamins are found in fish, lean meats and dairy products. A balanced diet is necessary to make sure we get our daily quota of all the vitamins.

There is a great deal scientists still need to learn about vitamins. Experts disagree exactly how much of each vitamin is necessary. Some say all the vitamins we need can be found in a wholesome diet, while others maintain that we need vitamin supplements. One thing is certain, however. Vitamins are necessary. And until research reveals all the answers, let's make sure each and every meal is as vitamin-rich as possible.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Anna Zanetti, 10, of Kingston, Ont., Canada, for her question:

WHICH OCEAN IS DEEPER — THE ATLANTIC OR THE PACIFIC?

Mount Robson, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, towers a stately 12,972 feet above sea level. But if Mount Robson were plucked up, turned over and set in the Milwaukee Deep in the Atlantic Ocean, it would not half-fill this huge trench. The Milwaukee Deep is part of the Puerto Rico Trench and is the deepest known valley in the Atlantic Ocean — 28,375 feet deep.

The Pacific Ocean is the largest ocean in the world. It covers more than one-third of the earth's surface. Its average depth is some 14,000 feet — almost a thousand feet deeper than the average depth of the Atlantic. Many of its trenches and valleys are from 20,000 to 30,000 feet deep. The deepest spot, however, is located in the Mariana Trench, near Guam. Here, the Challenger Deep is the deepest known place in any ocean — 36,198 feet.

Ballet as bright as ever; dancers bid city goodby

by LYNN ASINOF

Chicago dance fans have been saying goodbye to the Chicago Ballet in bits and pieces for several months. It has been a long and bitter farewell.

The unhappy love affair ended last weekend when the troupe presented its final program of the season. Most of the dancers are now off to Houston, following former artistic director Ben Stevenson, who was ousted late last year.

The dancers could hardly wait to be gone, and management probably was relieved to see them go. Relationships between the two had become increasingly strained, and occasionally flared into open warfare.

One dancer recently resigned and three others refused to extend their contracts for the final performance.

DESPITE THESE handicaps, the company managed to put on a good show, once again proving that its departure is Chicago's loss.

One of the company's greatest assets has been its warmth. The dancers project a youthful exuberance that is contagious. It is extended with an open hand to the whole audience, making up for any technical shortcomings.

This quality was most evident in "Con Spirito," a spirited neo-classic

Mid-week review

formances have consistently been bright, light and sure, and she will be missed.

"Moonscape," a modern piece choreographed by Jan Stockman Simonds, was interesting but a bit too long to hold the audience's interest. The dancers did not have enough strength to pull off the slow sustained movements needed to create the feeling of a moon walk.

THE MECHANICAL, floating movements set to electronic music were effective, but sections that relied on body sculpture moved too slowly. They seemed difficult, rather than aesthetic.

Guest artists Soila Arvola and Leo Ahonen, also of the Houston Ballet, provided some contrast in the program with the "Paquita" pas de deux. Both are technically strong but a bit icy. Neither warmed up to the audience.

Dances from "Napoli" Act III suffered from poor timing and rough landings by the men. Once again, the number ironically was staged by Clouser.

A FEW DANCERS from this year's troupe will be around when Chicago Ballet opens its 1976-77 season. But the company has to start from scratch looking for people to fill principal roles.

Crawford's play perceptive

The death of John Crawford at the age of 60 deprived bridge of one of the greatest and most colorful players. He won his first national pair tournament with Oswald Jacoby in 1939 and his total of 37 national championships is second only to Jacoby's 44.

He called Oswald from Monte Carlo last summer to say he was finally playing in a tournament with Jim, the second generation, and expected some day to play with James Oswald Jr., the third generation. We regret that the third generation will never have that privilege.

Here is a hand that won an important IMP match for Johnny. His play of the jack of clubs at trick one was instantaneous and most effective. West continued the suit. John took his ace, lost the diamond finesse, but had his nine tricks.

At the other table South played low. West shifted to a heart and the defense wound up with three hearts, one club, one diamond and a plus score.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Her mother grows senile at only 61

My mother at age 61, an intelligent, active woman, developed what was diagnosed as cerebral atrophy. Four years later she had gradually deteriorated to the point where she is a body without a mind, unable to speak or feed herself and apparently unable to recognize us. There is no family history of such an illness, so we assumed perhaps a head injury was behind it. However, another member of the family is now showing similar symptoms. Can you tell us what causes this condition?

I understand thoroughly your distress. I wish there were some good answer to give you. Your mother's condition is the same as that which occurs in many older people. Whether it begins early or late, the changes are approximately the same. I don't need to detail these because they are all too familiar in our society. In medical circles we call these dementia and sometimes senile dementia, although it must be stated that this condition can occur at a relatively young age, specifically in later middle age in some people. Women seem to be more susceptible to this disorder at an early age than are men.

Most of these disorders are associated with actual changes in the cells of the brain, and the condition can occur in individuals with brain injury as may be seen sometimes in boxers who had repeated excessive head injuries. The development of symptoms may be gradual or more rapid. One of the earliest signs is the diminished ability for problem solving. Individuals lose the ability to cope with new problems. Stated simply, they lose their previous capacity to learn even though they may still be able to handle old familiar tasks.

WE DO NOT KNOW what causes this condition, but these disorders are usually included as part of the picture of aging. However, medicine has long had a tendency to classify disorders that are not well understood as aging, only to find later that they are true diseases. A good example here is the common heart attack. We now know that heart disease can begin in young men in their early twenties and thus is hardly a disease of aging.

Sometimes disease of the arteries to the brain contributes to this problem. In other instances, the degeneration of the brain cells seems to be independent of disease to the arteries.

What we really need is a better understanding of the fundamental process of aging and how to prevent it. The truth is, we are very close to being able to control biological aging. That statement may startle some people, but we already understand a great deal of the regeneration process, how cells are replaced, and even how to make duplicates of frogs from the nucleus of an intestinal cell (popularly called cloning). Those who want information on what we understand about aging can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 1-7, Perpetual Youth, Aging. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Little tricks to keep that roast beef rare

Dear Dorothy: When rib roast is to be served for dinner, I follow every rule I've ever read — so that the meat will be as rare as the family likes it. It's done so many minutes per pound and taken out the moment the meat thermometer registers 140 degrees. And yet it's not rare when it's carved. It doesn't bother me but it sure annoys the others. —Michele Slater

You should take the roast out when it's about 135 degrees. Meat continues cooking for a short while after it comes out of the oven — and the internal temperature rises at least five degrees. Another little trick I hope you're aware of is to let the roast set for 15 or 20 minutes on a heated platter after removal from the oven. It carves easier.

Dear Dorothy: In reply to Earlene Morse, who wrote of the doggy odor, I may have a helpful hint. We had a similar problem, caused by our lovable Irish setter, which became acute when our daughter got old enough to crawl. We rented a steam carpet cleaner and not only do we feel better about the baby playing on that carpet, but the doggy odor is gone, even in damp or rainy weather. I'll bet that this, along with a drop of the chemical you suggested, will solve her problem nicely. —Trudy Kidd

Dear Dorothy: I have a deep scratch on my kitchen linoleum. Is there any way to cover it up? —Mrs. C. J. Tierney

Only way I know is to use a good shoe polish in the right color — something that will blend in with the pattern.

Dear Dorothy: When you're cutting up hard-cooked eggs for salad, the yolks won't crumble if the knife blade is wet. —Lucille Youngman

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Julie becomes stitchery expert

EMBROIDERY HAS been one of Julie Nixon Eisenhower's favorite pastimes for more than nine years and she has just created a line of needlework that includes adaptations of White House memorabilia from the Eisenhower years, pillow kits, birth samplers and floral pieces.

Julie Nixon Eisenhower has designed a line of stitchery kits for National Paragon called simply "Stitchery by Julie." "Needlework is a way of saying you care," says the 27-year-old warm and vibrant young woman who once again this year ranked in the top five of Good Housekeeping Magazine's "Ten Most Admired Women" poll.

The first weekend that Julie spent at the home of her parents-in-law she admired the beautiful crewel work seat covers stitched by David's mother, Barbara Eisenhower, for her dining room chairs. When Julie indicated interest, Mrs. Eisenhower gladly taught her some of the basic stitches. That was more than nine years ago, and embroidery has been one of Julie's favorite pastimes ever since.

"WHAT APPEALED to me about needlework then, and still does today," says Julie, "is the idea of making something beautiful and meaningful for someone you love, a gift that can be enjoyed for years and even passed along to the next generation."

Each of the 16 designs in "Stitchery by Julie" has special significance for her. For instance, one cross-stitch sampler, "Bless This House," was inspired by a brass plaque that hung in the family quarters in the White House throughout President Eisenhower's term of office. The original sampler was later given to David and Julie by Mamie Eisenhower, and has hung in the six different homes they have lived in since their marriage.

ANOTHER, "The Red Barn," is Julie's crewelwork interpretation of a painting done by President Eisenhower when he was in the White House. The painting (or mere "daubs" as he mostly called his work), is one of Mamie Eisenhower's favorites and she even used a reproduction of it as the family Christmas card one year.

One of the most beautiful of Julie's 16 designs in the "California Trellis" pillow, "Flowers," Julie says, "were my first vivid impression of California when I moved to Los Angeles at the age of 12, and a childhood spent in Washington, D.C. And this design has special significance for me because it recreates the trellis covered with roses which formed the entrance to the 'dream house' my parents built in 1961, although we enjoyed it only for two years before moving east again."

"STITCHERY BY JULIE" also includes two children's samplers, which are Julie's favorite needlework projects: "I love to give a child something he can grow up with, something of his very own."

The designs for Paragon are Julie's third stitchery projects. In 1970 she designed (with Family Circle Magazine) a crewel work pillow which raised $83,000 for the Girl Scouts. And in 1972, she created six historic designs based on art objects in the White House which raised funds for the White House Historical Association.

While working on these assorted projects, Julie also managed to graduate from Smith College, earn a Masters of Art degree in education from the Catholic University of America, write two cookbooks and edit five other books.

Cattle drives, campfires

See the Old West by wagon train

OLD WEST COUNTRY offers family vacation opportunities ranging from covered wagon treks across the South Dakota prairie and horseback expeditions to participating in an authentic cattle roundup. The adventures offer lots of unusual outdoor experiences.

by JILL BETTNER

Hit the trail this summer for a vacation full of the excitement of the Old West and unique experiences the family will never forget.

Join a wagon train on a trek across the South Dakota prairie, explore the high country by horseback, whoop it up at a rodeo and participate in a cattle roundup.

All this and more are included in vacations offered by Western Travel Merchants, based in Cody, Wyo., in cooperation with United and Frontier airlines.

THE VACATIONS are part of a promotion by the three companies for "Old West Country," a five-state area encompassing Montana, North Dakota, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming.

Dick Ludewig, head of Western Travel Merchants, said the area has much to offer, but until recently, was neglected.

"When people — especially from the Midwest — think of the West, it's usually of Texas," Ludewig said. "The impressions they've gotten seem to leave out his whole region we're calling 'Old West Country.' Well, it's a beautiful area and there's a whole lot out there — a lot of the kinds of experiences we think people are looking for. That's what these vacations are all about."

Besides wagon train trips, cattle roundups and horseback expeditions, the series of "Old West Excitement" holidays also includes escorted motorcoach trips through Yellowstone, Wyoming's Grand Teton and other national parks. There are also independent travel packages available for families who want to explore Old West Country at their own pace and vacations at Colorado guest ranches.

United and Frontier have arranged connecting flights from key cities across the United States including Chicago to the jumping-off points for all tours.

THE DAKOTA wagon train adventures are the kind of vacation you dreamed about as a kid watching Gene Autry and Roy Rogers on Saturday mornings — the chance to share the experiences of pioneer families, to play cowboy for real, sing songs around the campfire and sleep under the stars.

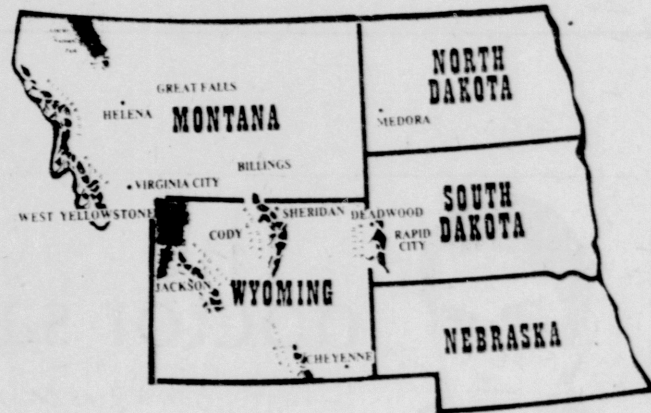

"Authenticity best sums up the Dakota wagon train adventures," Ludewig said. "You'll get dirty. You'll get bumped around. Chances are good, however, you'll have a truly enjoyable and unforgettable outdoor experience."

Two wagon train trips are scheduled to leave Rapid City, S.D. for five days and four nights on the trail June 28, July 12 and 26 and Aug. 9 and 23. Wagon Boss Maynard Sogge, a veteran Dakota wagon-master, will lead the trips that wind up back in Rapid City.

The adventure is priced at $278 per person including meals and transportation to and from circled wagons and Rapid City. Guides, horses, horse equipment, sleepin bags, foam mattresses and other gear for outdoor living are provided.

FOR THOSE WHO love the mountains there is a Teton Country prairie schooner trek starting and ending at Jackson, Wyo., from June 20 to Sept. 1.

"Pioneers" will make the trip along the backroads of Targhee National Forest in the corridor between Grand Teton and Yellowstone National Parks in a modernized "schooner" equipped with rubber tires and padded seats. The cost of the trip is $195 per person including transportation involved during the trip, chuckwagon meals on the trail and all necessary gear.

Two "Dakota Roundups" are scheduled for June 7 and 14. As part of this adventure, participants will actually take part in an authentic cattle drive. An experienced trail crew will teach all phases of "cowboying" during the three-day experience on the Dakota prairie rounding up, driving and branding a range herd. The cost is $348 per person including meals, transportation to and from Rapid City and camping gear.

Western Travel Merchants is offering two horseback adventures in the Cody Country area that round out the "Outdoor Excitement" part of Old West Country holidays.

FOUR OF AMERICA'S great national parks are highlights of the five escorted motorcoach holidays available from the vacation planning organization. National parks included in the itineraries besides Yellowstone and Grand Teton are Montana's Glacier and North Dakota's Theodore Roosevelt national parks. Also featured is Mount Rushmore National Memorial Park in South Dakota's Black Hills.

In addition to the opportunity to view the beauty and abundant wildlife of the parks will be the chance to float down a river, walk the boardwalks of Virginia City, Jackson and Old Trail Town at Cody, see the cowboy artistry of Charlie Russell, attend a rodeo, ride an aerial tram and enjoy live Western Theater.

The motorcoach itineraries range from eight days and seven nights to 14 days and 13 nights. All are fully escorted and include first-class hotel or motor inn accommodations.

Breakfasts and dinners are included in the price of the trips along with transportation aboard modern, air-conditioned buses, admission fees for features included in the tours, luggage handling and all taxes. Prices range from $468 per person (double occupancy) for the week-long "Mul Skinner" to $823 per person (double occupancy) for the two-week "Mountaineer." Groups will be limited to 25.

LUDEWIG ADMITTED that Old West Country vacations are not cheap, but stressed the fact his people know the territory. All trips are carefully planned to allow participants to comfortably see and do as much as possible, he said.

The motorcoach trips and series of independent travel holidays make up the "Old West Town and Country Excitement" program.

Computer to help United find lost luggage

There's nothing worse than landing in Miami for what's supposed to be a beautiful two-week vacation only to find your bags didn't make the flight.

Lost or "misdirected" luggage that winds up somewhere other than it's supposed to be is a problem that has caused headaches for hundreds of thousands of travelers and the airlines since the beginning of commercial flight. With the aid of a new computer bag-tracing system being introduced at airports around the country this month, however, United Airlines is hoping to cut the problem down to size.

The TABS program (an acronym for "Total Apollo Baggage System") is tied into United's giant Apollo computerized passenger reservations network. It will eliminate the necessity for paperwork that can cause lengthy delays in finding and recovering lost bags, according to a company spokesman.

Instead of filling out forms, United agents will punch information on

by Jill Bettner

missing luggage into the computer that will be relayed to airports throughout the country. As soon as the lost bag is located, it will be delivered to a passenger wherever he requests.

The system, called the most sophisticated of its kind in use in the airline industry, is already operating at Chicago's O'Hare Airport and a number of other airports. It is to be implemented throughout the United system by the end of April.

The nation's largest carrier loses some 400,000 or about 1 per cent of the 43 million pieces of luggage the company transports each year.

About 75 per cent of mishandled bags are easy to trace because of routine circumstances, such as bags left behind because of late check-ins, the spokesman said. TABS was developed for the remaining 25 per cent which are much harder to locate.

GEOLOGY BUFFS may be interested to know that the Field Museum will repeat its lecture tour of Wisconsin's Baraboo Range in May.

Weekend field trips will leave the museum at 8 a.m. Saturday, May 15, and return about 7 p.m. Sunday, May 16.

Edward Olsen, curator of mineralogy, will conduct the fieldtrip through the hills and along the shores of Devil's Lake.

The cost of the weekend is $50 per person and includes transportation by chartered bus and overnight accommodations in a first-class resort motel. The fee also covers all meals and gratuities. The trip is not suited for small children, but young people with an interest in natural history are welcome.

For further information, contact Dorothy Roder, Field Museum, 922-9410, ext. 219.

ONE OF AMTRAK's biggest bargains — the Slumbercoach — is now available on Amtrak's newest route, the Lake Shore Limited, between Chicago and New York City via Buffalo and Cleveland.

Slumbercoach service also is offered on Amtrak's Broadway Limited between Chicago and both New York and Washington.

Most sleeping cars require first-class fare, plus an accommodation charge for the sleeping room. Using a Slumbercoach, however, a passenger pays only coach fare, plus a space charge that is substantially less than the fee charged for roomettes and bedrooms in first-class sleepers. The difference in fares between Chicago and Washington, for example, is $36.25 for first-class sleeper and $50.50 using a Slumbercoach.

TRAVEL PLANS, International Inc., Oak Brook, is offering a new 32-page catalog, "The Great Car Tours of Europe," featuring 22 independent itineraries in the British Isles, France, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Spain and Portugal.

Drive yourself or chauffeur-driven cars are available for the tours with accommodations alternating between 16th Century coach inns, ancient abbeys or magnificent castles adapted for tourist comfort.

The itineraries are designed for independent travelers who want to explore the old continent on their own and at their own pace. Costs start at $35 per day per person for self-drive tours and $59 for chauffeur-driven tours. The price includes car rental, deluxe accommodations, sightseeing and most meals.

Despite climbing prices

Big year for travel industry seen

MURRAY J. BROWN

It may cost more to go, but barring new wars or other major catastrophes, 1976 could be a boom year for international and domestic travel.

All indications point to an increase in vacation trips at home during this Bicentennial Year, while an improving economy is expected to reverse the long downward trend in travel to Europe and other foreign destinations.

At the same time, predictions are that foreign visitors to the United States will set a new record.

Whatever the destination, travelers generally will pay more for transportation, lodging, food and other travel-related expenditures. According to the authoritative trade magazine, The Travel Agent, Americans will spend about $70 billion on travel this year, or $4 billion more than in 1975.

William D. Toohey of Discover America Travel Organization said recently that about 86 million Americans are expected to take a Bicentennial-related trip in 1976, out of a total 150 million expected to travel at home and abroad this year.

DEPARTURE BY Americans to Europe during the winter months, as well as passport applications, were compared with the previous year, according to figures released by the U.S. Passport Office. Industry predictions are that about 23 million are expected to travel abroad in 1976, mostly to Canada and Mexico.

More than three million Americans visited Europe, including the United Kingdom, in 1975, according to the European Travel Commission, which forecast an increase of about 10 per cent for 1976. ETC's U.S. chairman, John G. Bertram, said an important factor in the uptrend is the strengthening of the U.S. dollar in relation to key European currencies, such as the English pound, Italian lira and French franc.

Some wholesalers already have announced cuts in prices of package tours, which include Britain and Italy.

Industry sources said that the new bargain-priced One-Stop Tour Charters, together with Travel Group Charters and Advance Purchase Fares, also should help stimulate transatlantic travel.

WITH MOST OF the shooting stopped in the Middle East, both Egypt and Israel are hoping for more American visitors in 1976, too. The Christian-Moslem Civil War, with the destruction of Beirut's finest hotels, has wiped out once-popular Lebanon's tourist industry.

Many countries in Asia, South America and the Caribbean also are confident of an increase in tourism from the United States, despite the big Bicentennial promotions here.

But, as with almost everything else, the cost of travel at home and abroad continues to go up.

Travel industry sources estimate Americans will spend about $8.6 billion on foreign travel this year, or about six per cent more than in 1975.

Some indication of how the domestic travel budget has gone up comes from the American Automobile Assn. Two years ago, AAA estimated a motoring couple paid approximately $57.50 per day, representing $20 for meals, $20 for lodging, $5 for incidentals and $12.50 for each 300 miles worth of gas based on an average of 13 miles per gallon consumption.

THIS YEAR, AAA said, a couple will pay an average of $67 per day — $25 for a room, $24 for food, about the same for incidentals and $15 for fuel. Since the increase has been spread over a two-year period, the actual cost in the 1976 vacation-by-motor tab will come to roughly 10 per cent.

As usual, Travel Agent said, the overwhelming percentage of vacation trips in the United States will be by car and other vehicles. About 55 per cent will use an automobile, while another 10 per cent will do their touring in a camper. The remainder will go by plane, bus or rail.

Approximately 14 per cent of the motorists will stay at hotels or motels, and 3 per cent will bunk with friends and relatives. Another 25 per cent will use campers, cabins or tents. One per cent will find accommodations on the water, either in cruise ships or aboard small pleasure craft.

WHILE THE MOTOR car or recreational vehicle still serves as the principal mode of transportation, travel by plane is becoming increasingly popular. This year, about 28 per cent of all vacationers are expected to travel by air. According to recent surveys by the Conference Board, air travel already shows a 40 per cent increase over a year ago.

Travel Agent says the most popular destinations during the Bicentennial year will include: Disney World at Orlando, Fla., Washington, D.C., Miami, New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Williamsburg, Va., Valley Forge, Pa., and Plymouth, Mass.

Some reports from abroad minimized the effects of the Bicentennial promotion programs in attracting foreign visitors to the United States during its 200th birthday celebrations.

However, the U.S. Travel Service has predicted a record number of 18.1 million — or 15.3 per cent more than the 15.7 million who came in 1975 to set the previous record.

A PRELIMINARY report issued by USTS said the foreign visitors are expected to spend $6.6 billion here, compared with $5.48 billion in 1975.

Canada is expected to provide the greatest number of visitors, with 11.7 million crossing the border, up 17 per cent over 1975, followed by Mexico with 2.5 million, an increase of 19 per cent over last year.

Japan is expected to remain as the largest overseas source of travelers to the United States, with a total of 900,000 visitors, an increase of 14.6 per cent. Travelers from Western Europe are expected to show only a slight increase from South America will be up, particularly from Brazil and Venezuela.

The USTS report further predicts that the world market for travel will involve 214 million persons arriving at some destination outside their home country who will spend about $37 billion on their travels.

In 1975 the World Tourism Organization reported a total of 213 million international travelers and total receipts of $31.9 billion.

Wow!

10-ton cherry pie to kick off Michigan's Bicentennial fete

A Charlevoix, Mich., restaurateur plans to add the flavor of the Bicentennial to annual "Michigan Week" festivities next month by baking a 10-ton cherry pie.

Yep, David Phillips intends to assemble 10 tons of gooeyness and bake it as a publicity stunt to launch the statewide celebration May 15. He's also hoping to break the world's record, currently held by a five-ton English mincemeat.

Area fruit producers have donated some 10,000 pounds of ripe cherries for the unusual concoction. It will be baked in an 18-foot oven that usually functions as a cement kiln.

While the pie is in the oven — baking time is an estimated three or four hours — folk singers and local performers will entertain spectators.

Phillips is expecting a crowd of about 20,000 to see how the pie turns out. If it's edible, he says he'll pass out slices averaging a pound each.

Too bad Ol' George can't be there to chop off the first piece.

Suburban groups oppose MSD lake water request

Two groups seeking to bring Lake Michigan water to the Northwest suburbs have agreed to cooperate and support each other's efforts.

SHARE + 3 (Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Buffalo Grove and Palatine) and DAMP (Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine Water Commission) representatives met recently and decided they would work together to oppose the Metropolitan Sanitary District's request for an increased lake water allocation.

The MSD is scheduled to appear again at an Illinois Dept. of Transportation hearing Wednesday to request more lake water.

DAMP and SHARE + 3 representatives are expected to cross examine the MSD on its allocation request.

A 1959 Supreme Court decision limits the Illinois diversion of Lake Michigan water to a maximum of 3,200 cubic feet per second. Total requests for water exceed 4,000 cubic feet per second and local officials say if the MSD allocation is increased, there will not be water available for the suburban groups.

DAMP and SHARE + 3 also agreed to attempt to open discussions with the MSD to resolve differences over the lake water diversion issue.

State hearings now are expected to continue to the fall before an allocation schedule is announced.

That stands for Exit Drill In The Home. Which stands for you and your family knowing how to get out alive when fire blocks your doors. Do an EDITH tonight. Get your family together and discuss how you'd escape and where you'd meet outside. (The meeting place is vital in order to know everyone's safe.) Then if there's a fire you won't have to start guessing how to save your skin. EDITH will rescue you.

Illinois briefs

Kerner undergoing cancer treatment

Cancer-stricken Otto Kerner, former Illinois governor, has been hospitalized for the past week because of "a general decline in health, a weight loss and shortness of breath," his physician said Monday.

Kerner was listed in fair condition at the Illinois Masonic Medical Center in Chicago.

The former U.S. appeals court judge had been receiving chemotherapy and radiation treatments for lung cancer at the medical center on an outpatient basis for several weeks.

He said two months ago that if chemotherapy and more radical treatments were unsuccessful, "the alternative is to die."

Kerner was convicted of bribery in 1973 in connection with an Illinois racetrack scandal while he was governor and was sentenced to three years in prison. The U.S. Parole Board approved Kerner's parole in March 1975 when it received a report on his medical condition.

He was released 220 days after his sentence began and taken directly to Illinois Masonic.

On March 11, 1975, doctors at Illinois Masonic removed a malignant lesion on the upper lobe of his right lung. Kerner said early this year the surgery did not check the spread of cancer.

Kerner was re-admitted last Monday. His physician, Dr. L. L. Braum, said Kerner was hospitalized for "supportive therapy because of a general decline in health, a weight loss and shortness of breath."

A hospital spokesman said no surgery had been performed on the former Democratic governor during his current hospitalization.

Kerner served as Illinois governor from 1961 until 1968, when he resigned to become a federal judge. He served on the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals until he was convicted in 1973 on charges that he awarded favorable racing dates while governor in exchange for a chance to buy racetrack stock at bargain prices.

Carey opened prisoners' mail

Cook County State's Atty. Bernard Carey supplied the FBI with copies of the personal mail of several Illinois prison inmates in 1969 when he was a state official, it was revealed in federal court Monday.

Carey admitted he authorized his staff to screen letters when he was the assistant director of the Illinois Dept. of Public Safety.

However, Carey said state law required him to honor requests by the FBI and other law enforcement agencies.

Bill seeks to end sales tax

Illinois sales taxes would be abolished by 1978 and the state income tax increased under a bill introduced Monday by Rep. Helen Satterthwaite, D-Urbana. The bill would reduce the sales tax from 5 per cent to 2 per cent in calendar 1977 and then eliminate it altogether in 1978. The bill provides for an increase in the state's income tax to offset the loss of revenues from the sales tax.

The income tax would rise from the present 2½ per cent to 5-5/8 per cent in 1978 for individuals and from the present 4 per cent to 9 per cent in 1978 for corporations.

Metropolitan briefs

McDonald to watch changes of low bids

Cook County Comr. Mary McDonald said she will watchdog future county construction projects because she suspects change orders are vastly increasing the county's costs.

At the county board meeting Monday, Mrs. McDonald, one of the six suburban Republicans on the board, objected to the awarding of a concrete contract for the county jail for $107,000, less than half the original estimate by the architect employed by the county.

Mrs. McDonald said the fact the bid came in so much lower than the estimates means either that the estimate is no good or that the contractor "thinks he'll make his money on change orders." Change orders are issued after construction starts, to increase or decrease the contract.

She said contractors she has talked to say they do not bid on county contracts because low bidders "are bidding below costs."

She said, "I'm going to start complaining about every one of the change orders we get. I think that with change orders, sometimes they end up giving the low bidder more than the high bidder would have gotten."

County Board Pres. George W. Dunne said he is also concerned with the cost of change orders to the county. He told Mrs. McDonald any complaints about wrongdoing in bidding "should be taken to the State's Attorney."

Computer vote decision delayed

The Cook County board Monday once again delayed a decision on adopting a new punch-card computer voting system for the November election.

The board agreed to meet Tuesday, April 27, to decide whether to adopt the new system to use in at least part of the county, or to spend about $1.3 million to make the present system usable.

The county board also received a promise from the representative for Computer Elections System, the company that makes the punch-card system, that it will not have to spend extra money to upgrade the present system if it makes a commitment to convert to the computer system.

Converting to the punch-card system would cost more than $5 million, but the county could not get enough machines to make the whole conversion in time for November.

John Gerbels, sales representative for CES, said the company would supply lever-machines for all precincts where it cannot supply its own equipment, with the county paying only for transportation and storage.

County officials say only 400 of the county's present 3,800 voting machines are usable for the November election. 1,000 of the present machines are completely obsolete and another 1,800 could be upgraded for use in November.

Indictments possible by May

Indictments may be handed down as early as May 1 in an investigation of a $2 million to $3 million bribe scheme involving Metropolitan Sanitary District officials and two former state legislators.

U.S. Atty. Samuel Skinner confirmed the federal grand jury investigation is underway and should be concluded sometime this spring. United Press International reported other sources as saying the indictments may come down before May 1.

The investigation centers on a payoff scheme involving a contract to Ingram Barge, Inc., the company which hauls sludge from MSD facilities in Cook County to Downstate Fulton County, where it is used to reclaim strip-mined land.

The Ingram Barge contract, totaling $43 million, was awarded in 1971. Reports of the investigation indicate the government suspects an international network of payoffs was set up to obtain the contract for Ingram and funnel bribes to various public officials.

Stock prices climb; Dow up 7.63

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stock prices rose along a broad front Monday, but the lack of volume on the New York Stock Exchange indicated Wall Street's reaction was mild to a sharp jump in the nation's economic recovery.

The Commerce Department's report that the first quarter Gross National Product, adjusted for inflation, rose 7.5 per cent was a major buying factor.

The news helped the blue-chip Dow Jones industrial average, a 5.83-point winner last Thursday, gain 7.63 points to 988.11 on the first day of trading after the Easter holidays.

Volume, however, totaled only 16,500,000 shares, up slightly from the 15,100,000 traded Thursday, the second slowest trading day of the year. The market was closed for Good Friday. Analysts said the slow pace demonstrated the market lacked conviction.

OTHER AVERAGES also gained ground. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index gained 0.77 to 101.44, the NYSE common stock index added 0.41 to 53.96 and the average price of an NYSE common share increased by 25 cents.

The market's breadth figures improved toward the finish, with advances routing declines, 1,021 to 468, among the 1,864 issues crossing the tape.

The GNP report, which sparked early buying, showed the economic recovery proceeded at a better pace than the 5 per cent jump in the fourth quarter of 1975. It was the best GNP pickup since last April.

THE LABOR DEPARTMENT also encouraged some by revising the March Wholesale Price Index increase to 0.3 per cent from 0.4 per cent. Late last week, the Commerce Department reported fourth quarter profits rose 1.4 per cent instead of the 2.3 per cent originally estimated.

For the recession-ridden year, the department said, profits were off 10.4 per cent. But first quarter earnings reports released so far indicated most corporations will increase profits in 1976.

Observers were disturbed, however, that the market did not respond more vigorously to the generally favorable news. Analysts said they were waiting for the market to make a break in either direction after fluctuating the past two months.

Prices closed higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share increased by one cent. Volume totaled 1,850,000 shares, compared with 1,970,000 traded Thursday.

Project to aid families of alcoholics

Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, has begun a new program designed to help families of alcoholics.

The two-day, eight-hour workshop sessions are intended to show family members how their personality and attitudes can actually contribute to the alcoholic's problem.

"In their desire to help the alcoholic, family members think the best thing to do is hide the problem," said Bill Schleicher, coordinator of outpatient services at Lutheran General's alcoholism treatment center.

"They cover up for the alcoholic family member. They do things like calling in sick for him or her, or not being honest with their family physician," he said.

WORKSHOP SESSIONS consist of movies, videotapes, discussions, individual and group consultations. Some of the topics are: What is alcoholism? What are Alcoholics Anonymous and Al-Anon and how do you get into them? How do you cope with the illness of alcoholism?

"Many family members think that alcoholism is a matter of willpower. They think that if the alcoholic really loved the family, he would stop drinking and because he doesn't stop, he doesn't love them. These attitudes also interfere with recovery," Schleicher said.

Chicago trade club to get service award

Sec. of Commerce Elliot Richardson will present an export service award Thursday to the International Trade Club of Chicago.

The President's "E Star" award will be given to club representatives during the 1976 Chicago World Trade Conference at the Hyatt Regency Chicago Hotel.

(Jennie: Lady Randolph Churchill), Rosemary Harris (Notorious Woman), Susan Blakely (Rich Man, Poor Man), and Jean Marsh (Upstairs, Downstairs).

Nominees for outstanding performance by an actress in a drama or comedy special were Colleen Dewhurst (A Moon for the Misbegotten), Susan Clark (Babe), Jane Alexander (Eleanor and Franklin), and Sada Thompson (The Entertainer).

Members of the academy voted in their own areas of expertise on 20 different ballots for shows telecast between March 11, 1975 and March 15, 1976. The final selections will be made on secret ballots by blue ribbon panels appointed by the academy.

An alcoholic affects at least four other people around him, researchers have found. Most of the time, the people affected are his family members.

The family workshops will be held about once a month and the cost is $70 for two days. For more information call Mary Lovelace, coordinator, 696-6053.

Wit behind Chickenman puns along cause there's no props and no visual effects. We create a character and a situation, and the listener lets his imagination do the rest of the work," he said.

Orkin, 41, formed his creative service in 1968 when he became disenchanted with his work as public affairs and production director for WCFL radio in Chicago.

At the time he also was the voice and creator of the Chickenman series, a parody on Batman in which Benton Harbor, a mild-mannered shoe salesman, changes his identity at night to fight crime in the streets of Midland City.

The continuing adventures of the White-Winged Warrior was the first of its kind in modern-day radio history and an instant success for Orkin, who has had a radio-theater career since his teen-age years on the East Coast.

WHEN WCFL DROPPED the Chickenman series, Orkin dropped WCFL and went to a suite of offices on Rush Street where he now writes, records and syndicates all of his work.

The two humorists are seated at either end of a long conference table in one of the brightly colored offices. They lean over the table, get up and pace the floor, stare through the windows at the city below and then, suddenly, spill forth wildly funny lines and ideas.

But, this funny business is

serious stuff, they say. It's not just two guys having a good time.

The ideas for commercials and feature series come from everyday occurrences or magazines, and come to mind during the morning rush hour or late at night just as they're dozing off to sleep.

AMONG THOSE who have used Orkin's humor to sell their goods are McDonald's, Time Magazine, General Finance, Haggard Jeans, Toyota, Kramel Yogurt and Easter Seals.

Remember the Martin Oil station attendants who were advertised to appear in purple ballet tights? That was Orkin's idea.

How about the political candidate who worries because he didn't have the chance to glance at the current Time Magazine before participating in a national debate? That was his too.

Although Orkin's voice is distinctive, his humor is even more of a trademark. It can be distinguished in commercials and feature series alike.

THE TOOTH FAIRY, which was aired for a short while on Chicago's WLS radio station, was a soap opera approach to the adventures of Newton Snookers, a dental assistant who carries out his family's tradition of giving coins to people whose teeth fall out.

The Masked Minuteman is one popular segment of the Great American Birthday Party, a Bicentennial spoof and portrayal of historical figures in comical situations, currently being aired on WGN radio, Chicago.

The Masked Minuteman is really Fenton Flagg by day, a newspaper vendor who disguises himself as a woman. He and his faithful dog, Bunker Hill, are out to clean up the colonies in 1776.

Most of Orkin's radio features are still being sold to 500 radio stations throughout the United States, Canada and Australia.

ALTHOUGH SWAMPED with commercial work, Orkin has delved into another aspect of radio entertainment and has produced 60-second word and song jingles for use on contemporary rock radio stations. WDAL-FM plans to air several of the new jingles this month.

DICK ORKIN

He'll try just about anything for a laugh — someday, maybe even children's programming, Orkin said.

But that's a long way off because the market for comedy commercials and feature serials is virtually untouched.

"There's a lot more we can do, it's just trying to find the time to do it," he said.

But that's a long way off because doing. Call it funny or call it creative. It's a living and it's good work."

Forgotten souls of baseball deserve consideration

by MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Years ago, every major league baseball player was a hero in the land. He could do no wrong no matter what and he was celebrated with the kind of special regard which sometimes approached pure idolatry.

Now all that has changed. His image with the fans isn't what it was before and primarily this is due to the players' continuing hassles with management.

Until recently, such hassles were unknown. Fans seldom were aware of the sometimes-bitter infighting which took place between management and the players.

In its upcoming issue Time magazine, which is doing a cover story on baseball, claims most traditionalists feel Joe DiMaggio would never had played out his option.

"Sure, I would have been tempted to play out my option," DiMaggio told the magazine. "After my fourth season I asked for $43,000 and general manager Ed Barrow told me 'Young man, do you realize Lou Gehrig, a 16-year man, is playing for only $44,000?' I said, 'Mr. Barrow, there is only one answer to that — Mr. Gehrig is terribly under paid.'

"And then there was the season I hit in 56 straight games (1941). When I came in to talk contract, I was offered a $5,000 cut."

What DiMaggio probably didn't know was that Barrow was making only $25,000 himself and how do you think any "boss" feels paying another man two, three, four and even five times what he gets?

Traditionally, the fans never have been warm supporters of management, but in a survey taken by a major eastern newspaper during the deadlock which kept the training camps closed last month, the fans sided heavily with management against the players.

Bill Freehan, the Detroit Tigers' veteran catcher, believes the media is largely to blame for the change in the ballplayer's image. This is his opinion, of course, not mine, and he says whenever a player signs for $200,000 the fact is carried in big headlines, but whenever a player signs for $20,000, it is barely mentioned.

Consequently, Freehan says, the fans get the impression all ballplayers make $200,000 a year. He claims they never get to know about the "average player."

Freehan has been with the Tigers 13½ seasons. He has been picked on 11 American League All-Star teams and he has played in one World Series, so that takes him out of the "average player" class right there.

He received a bonus of better than $100,000 to sign in 1961 and makes somewhere around $90,000 a year with them now. There's nothing average about that either.

"If we're talking about the 'average player,' he's a guy with four-five years in the league, maybe 25 or 26 years old, and he's making between $25,000 and $30,000," says Freehan.

"Let's say for the sake of example he's got a home in Oklahoma and he's with this club. He brings his family to spring training and leases an apartment for about $150 a week. With the allowance money he gets in spring training, he just about breaks even.

"When the club goes north, he has to take an apartment for himself and his family in Detroit. The best he can get is a six-month lease for no less than $300 a month. That's unfurnished. He has to lease the furniture, too.

"I'd say the 'average player' probably has between $2,000 and $5,000 in his bank account and I could be a little high there. It all depends if he has an off-season job or if he plays winter ball. His wife has to be both mother and father to their kids on all the road trips. Every ballplayer is gone half the time from the first of March to the first of October.

"Now we come to the tough part, the part when he can't play anymore and he's all through," Freehan goes on.

"Say he's 32. Thirty-five is well beyond 'average.' If he was a journalist, a teacher or an electrician, he would be right in the middle of his most productive years. But he's a ballplayer and he's all finished, so he has to find a new way of making a living for himself and his family. During the time he has been playing baseball, his kids developed a bad habit. They liked to eat.

"I don't agree with those who say the ballplayers are killing the goose that laid the golden egg. I don't think so at all. Nor do I believe the majority of ballplayers are overpaid. The 'average player' doesn't have a long career and he doesn't make that much money."

Bill Freehan isn't the only ballplayer who talks like this. Others do, too. Others like Tom Seaver, Lou Brock, Ed Kranepool and Ken Holtzman all talk the same way and they all make good money.

They talk about the average player and how tough it is for him to make ends meet.

All this anxiety by the higher-salaried stars for the little guy is commendable, except for one thing I don't quite understand.

If there is so much genuine concern for the little guy, I mean the real little guy, how come I've yet to hear any major leaguer ever propose any pension or improvement at all for the minor leaguers, those truly forgotten souls of baseball.

They're baseball players, too, aren't they?

Or don't they count because they have nobody to speak for them?

Mid-Suburban pitchers in standout performance

The Marathon mob

a Herald staff report

John Mertins scattered seven hits and didn't issue a walk as Arlington remained unbeaten for the season with a 5-1 Mid-Suburban League triumph over Hersey that highlighted a full slate of conference baseball games.

Mertins, who fired a perfect game against Wheeling in the league opener, was no puzzle for Hersey's Joe Pusatera whose first of three hits ended the skein in the opening inning.

Arlington tapped Hersey hurler Bob Huber for a run in the second on a walk and an error, although the Cardinals squandered several scoring opportunities by stranding nine runners over the first four innings.

Hersey countered in the top of the third on Mark Johnson's booming leadoff triple to rightcenter and Pusatera's run-scoring single to left.

The Cardinals broke the contest open in the fifth as John Vukovich reached on an error and Frank DeSimone and Brett Frase parlayed base hits for a run.

Designated hitter Kevin O'Brien doubled up the power alley in left-center for two more and Matt Splitt's bunt single plated O'Brien with the fourth tally of the frame.

Arlington boosted its record to 3-0 in the league while Hersey's mark leveled at 1-1.

battling on the mound at this moment were it not for a costly Elk Grove error that produced both runs in the Cougars' 2-0 Mid-Suburban League victory Monday.

The two pitchers traded scoreless frames through five innings before Conant broke free in their share of the sixth.

Up to that time Curran had grudgingly given up just two hits and Patino three.

Roger Schweigert opened Conant's sixth inning with a double to leftfield. Then, with two outs, Dan Neswold was given a free pass to first to put two men on.

Dan Mullin then oifed a long fly to center field that was misjudged, both runs scoring and Mullin ending up on third.

While pitching the Cougars to their first conference win of the year, Patino was threatened only once.

In the fourth inning Gren first baseman Bob Ray opened with a double and went to third when Kevin McCloughan reached on an error.

After giving up a walk Patino settled down and got the final batters on a pop up and a fly ball to right field.

2-HITTER FOR McCUE

Schaumburg righthander Tim McCue surrendered just two singles as the Saxons beat Forest View, 5-1, Monday to extend their MSL record to 3-1.

McCue, a junior, didn't allow a hit until the fifth when Chris Hanson led off with a clean shot to left. But McCue put the Falcons down in order to end the inning.

The Saxons scored their first run in the second inning on walks to Rick Baker and Steve Conrad and an RBI single up the middle by McCue with two outs.

The lead was increased in the third. After Bob Connell was safe on an infield error, Russ Zonca drove him home with a towering triple to right field. Four walks and another error sent three more Saxon runs scampering across the plate.

Zonca was the hitting hero for Schaumburg, collecting half his team's hits off four Falcon pitchers with a double and a triple.

An infield hit by Jim Petran to lead off the Forest View sixth, followed by a pair of Saxon errors, put McCue in a touchy, bases-loaded situation with no one out. But he wiggled out of the jam with a couple of forceouts at the plate and a tap to the mound. The only run scored on a walk to Dave Fulton with the bags loaded.

McCue struck out three Falcons and walked four in going the distance for his second league victory of the year.

Forest View's MSL mark is now 1-3.

GAWRON DAZZLES SCHAUMBURG

Hoffman Estates pushed across a run in the third and pitcher Ray Gawron made it stand up in tossing a two-hitter at visiting Rolling Meadows, 1-0.

The only run came in the third inning. Rick Lindow singled, stole second, moved to third on a ground out by Joe Gajewski and scored on a double to left by Randy Brown.

Gawron struck out 12 and walked three. His effort was equalled by losing pitcher John Igrasek, but the latter allowed six hits.

Lindow was the game's leading hitter with 2-for-3.

CONANT WINS PITCHING GEM

Conant's Jim Patino and Elk Grove's Tom Curran might still be

BLAIR JOHNSON of Arlington has been holding down half of the number two doubles job for the Cardinals this year. Johnson, a junior, has helped Arlington to a 4-0 record in the Mid-Suburban League tennis race.

Cubs bow again at home; Expos register 4-3 win

It's too early to panic, but the Chicago Cubs are losing games at home and that's reason enough to create some definite concern.

You're supposed to fatten up at home and hope for a split on the road to keep things interesting over an entire baseball campaign.

Pete Mackanin's two-run homer in the fourth inning, his first in the majors with a man on base, and Mike Jorgensen's run-scoring double in the seventh Monday led the Montreal Expos to a 4-3 victory over the Cubs in Wrigley Field.

The loss was the fourth in a row at home for the Cubs, who saw their National League record dip to 4-5 after a promising start in the 1976 season.

Chicago and Montreal will return to Wrigley Field today for a 1:30 battle. Geoff Zahn will pitch for the Cubs against Woody Fryman.

Mackanin's homer Monday came off loser Bill Bonham, 1-1, after a walk to Tim Foli and it gave the Expos a 3-2 lead. He hit 12 home runs last year, but all of them came with the bases empty.

Gary Carter's infield hit knocked home Montreal's first run in the third and the Expos added what proved to be the winning marker in the seventh on back-to-back doubles by Nate Colbert and Jorgensen.

Steve Rogers went 8 1/3 innings and received credit for his first win of the season after two losses. He was touched for a two-run single by Bill Madlock in the third and then blanked the Cubs until the ninth when Jerry Morales hit his third homer of the year. Wayne Granger then came on to get the final two outs.

The Cubs' four-game series with Montreal will conclude Thursday, and then they will travel to the West Coast for the start of a three-city excursion that will keep them on the road until Tuesday, May 4.

The White Sox were idle Monday but will return to action today at 1:00 in New York against the Yankees. This will be Chicago's first look at the remodeling job on Yankee Stadium.

Bart Johnson will pitch for the White Sox against Rudy May.

BISON THUMP PIRATES

Mike Marshall did it all for Buffalo Grove Monday.

The sophomore standout hurled a four hitter at visiting Palatine and cracked a three-run homer in his first visit to the plate. It was all the Bison needed to down the Pirates 7-1 and remain undefeated in the MSL's North Division race.

Marshall was tapped for one unearned run in the second inning when Bruce Peterson singled, moved along to second on Tony Zara's free pass and raced home on a miscue off the bat of Bill Mottashed. A couple of errors and a walk to Mike Vasko also

St. Viator drops third to Holy Cross, 2-1

The third time around held no charm for the St. Viator Lions Monday as they fell for the third time this season in a one-run decision to Holy Cross, 2-1. The loss snapped a six game winning streak for the hot Lions who going into the contest had won 11 of their last 13 ball games. And what about those two losses during that streak?

That's right. Both came at the hands of Holy Cross.

Now 12-6 on the year, the Lions may be starting to wonder what it takes to beat their conference foe from Cross. Monday's game was a replay of the first two — a one run decision with good pitching and a tight defense, but just not enough offense from the Lions.

The Lions scored first when Mark Bonnuchi, who went the distance on the mound, tripled to lead off. Jim Thompson singled him home.

But Cross came back with runs in the fifth and sixth, runs that they hustled for.

Clabrese walked, stole second, went to third on a fielder's choice and was singled home in the fifth. Gawa-luck singled, stole second, and was singled home in the sixth.

The Lions had a golden opportunity for a second run in the fourth when Bill Robin led off with a triple. But Robin was called out at the plate on an aborted suicide squeeze and the rally died there.

The Lions are now 4-1 in the East Suburban Catholic Conference. Viator returns to conference action Wednesday when Carmel visits for a 4 p.m. game.

Fultz wins red hot Boston Marathon

Jack Fultz, beaming as they placed a green laurel wreath over his curly blond hair, credited the folks with the hoses and sprinklers for his victory Monday the 80th Boston Marathon.

"They were great. They made the race bearable," said Fultz, 27, who got pleasantly soaked on several occasions as he loped his way to an easy victory in a time of 2:20:19.

Temperatures hovered near 90 under humid, sunny skies, as spectators with garden hoses lined the 26-mile, 385-yard, route from suburban Hopkinton to downtown Boston, spraying Fultz and the other 1,897 runners as they passed by. Other suburbanites tied their sprinklers to telephone poles, providing welcome relief against the heat.

"They deserve all the credit," said Fultz, whose number got so soggy it fell off during the race, causing confusion at the finish line.

"Nobody knew my number and nobody knew my name. They just kept calling out Georgetown, Georgetown," said Fultz, a Coast Guard veteran, who is just completing his undergraduate studies at Georgetown.

Kim Meritt from the University of Wisconsin, Parkside, was the first woman finisher, with a time of 2:47:19, more than five minutes behind the record women's time set last year by Liane Winter and exactly 27 minutes behind Fultz.

Last year's winner Bill Rodgers, who set the course record in 2:09:55, did not enter the race this year because he is running in the Olympic trials next month in Eugene, Ore. Fultz is also to run in that race.

Fultz, a soft spoken five-foot-9, 145-pounder, grabbed the lead from Richard Mabuza of Swaziland, a member of his nation's royal police force, with just over eight miles to go. Fultz said felt threatened only once after that — on famous Heartbrak Hill, a series of four gruelling hills six miles from the finish.

N.L. to meet on expansion

National League owners will discuss the touchy subject of expansion at a meeting next week in Chicago, league president Charles S. (Chub) Feeney revealed Monday.

Unlike their American League counterparts, however, the NL is taking a low key approach. Feeney declined to comment on whether the meeting was called to reaffirm the league's policy on expansion into Toronto, Canada, and Washington, D.C.

"We're meeting in Chicago to discuss expansion and Commissioner Kuhn's directive about our plans next Monday, April 26," was all Feeney would say when queried about the abruptly called gathering.

NL owners, who came within a whisker of approving the sale and transfer of the San Francisco Giants to a Toronto group last January, have indicated a definite interest in placing a franchise in the Canadian city as well as the nation's capital, which has been without a team since 1970 when the then Senators were moved to Texas.

However, unlike the American League owners, they have preferred to downplay immediate expansion.

Kuhn, who has been rebuffed by American League owners in their fight to put a franchise in Toronto, last Friday gave the National League two weeks to come up with an expansion plan.

American League owners already have granted a 1977 expansion team to Seattle, which had threatened to sue baseball if left without a team much longer, and insist they will defy Kuhn's authority and also take in Toronto.

Twice, the American League has ignored Kuhn's policy statements regarding expansion into Toronto. The latest came Friday when AL president Lee MacPhail said the league "vigorously disputes the authority of the commissioner to retroactively interfere with its expansion to Toronto."

Kuhn blocked the proposed move into the Canadian city until the league first considered a prior commitment to place a franchise in Washington.

Late last week, Kuhn said he had advised all clubs that he was giving the National League two weeks to put into effect its proposed expansion plan for Washington and Toronto.

Indianapolis 500 entries reach 62

The entry list for the 1976 Indianapolis 500 climbed to 62 Monday with the addition of five more entries.

Three cars were entered by Ralph Wilke, Leader Cards, Inc., Milwaukee, Wis. He listed George Snyder, Speedway, as one of the drivers and Tom Bigelow, Whitewater, Wis., as another. He listed no driver for the third.

Bigelow has been in the Indianapolis race twice, Snyder 11 times, finishing eighth last year.

All three cars are Eagles, powered by Drake-Offenhauser engines.

Eldon Rasmussen, Indianapolis, entered a car with a V8-Foyt engine. Tassi Vatis, New York City, who entered two cars earlier, entered a third, Drake-Offy powered, without a driver.

Roger Penske and Parnelli Jones entries were still expected, but had not arrived, Motor Speedway officials said.

Sugar Bowl eyes New Year's Day

Sponsors of the annual Sugar Bowl football game said Monday they hope to abandon their New Year's Eve kickoff and return the game to New Year's Day.

The New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association said it had asked the NCAA to approve the change in playing dates. The NCAA Extra Events Committee will meet Thursday and Friday to approve next season's post season bowl games.

The committee and the NCAA Council both must approve the change for it to take effect.

"If we get the approval from both groups, we will play the Sugar Bowl Game in the Louisiana Superdome on New Year's Day with a noon local time kickoff," said Harry M. England, association president.

The Sugar Bowl was moved to New Year's Eve four years ago in an effort to increase its share of the national television audience.

"After careful study of the best possible time and date for the 43-year-old classic it was determined that a return to Jan. 1 was in the best interest of the classic and for its thousands of local and nationwide supporters along with the vast television football audience," said England.

The move puts the Sugar Bowl again in direct competition with the Cotton Bowl game in Dallas for nationwide television viewers.

And in other sports news...

World Team Tennis was sued in federal district court Monday by a Canadian firm which claimed the league backed out of a deal to field teams at Buffalo, N.Y., and Toronto, Canada. Can Sports of Ontario, Canada said it bought franchises in 1973 but the WTT terminated the deal of Jan. 31, 1975, and as a result the firm has suffered losses of more than $1-million.

The Philadelphia Phillies have acquired catcher Tim Blackwell from the Boston Red Sox for cash. Blackwell joins the Phils after their regular catcher, Johnny Oates, was put on the 21-day disabled list after breaking his collarbone in a collision April 10 with Pittsburgh's Dave Parker.

George Almond Munger, who guided the University of Pennsylvania to nine "mythical" Ivy Group football titles in 16 years as head coach, Monday was named to the National Football Foundation's College Football Hall of Fame. He coached Penn from 1938 to 1953, the longest tenure of any head coach at the school.

had Marshall in trouble in the fourth but he pitched his way out and went on to fan six in notching his second loop, decision.

On offense meanwhile, Marshall came to the plate in the first after Mike Ledna had walked and Al Cymbal had singled and promptly unloaded his second circuit blow of the season. Before the inning ended Buffalo Grove added a fourth run on singles by Tim Prokof and Don Saulic.

Ledna scored again in the second frame, singling and advancing on a stolen base and an error and then racing home on Cymbals suicide squeeze bunt. In the third Steve Chobanian singled and Dave Martin walked and both were singled home by Ledna to round out Bison scoring.

FREMD NIPS WHEELING

A two-out single in the bottom of the seventh by Mike Mertes gave Fremd a 1-0 victory over visiting Wheeling.

The Fremd Vikings staged the rally after one was out when Chris Pethley placed a bunt down the third base line. Starting and losing pitcher Keith Pecka fielded the ball cleanly but threw the ball away, allowing Pethley to reach second.

After Pecka registered his 12th strikeout, he walked designated hitter

Dale Hallberg. Pethley stole third base, setting the stage for Mertes. The Fremd third baseman stroked a single into left for the winning blow. It was the second hit in three trips for this ninth-place batter.

Pecka scattered eight hits and walked two while suffering the tough loss. Winning pitcher Matt Fox, a lefty like Pecka, had 10 strikeouts, allowed just four hits and only one walk. Three of those hits were collected by Glenn Barry, who had a single, double and triple.

Fox pitched out of jams in both the first and seventh. His catcher, Carl DePaolis, picked off Barry in the first at third base. In the last inning, a fine fielding play by first baseman Brian Fletcher helped strand a Wheeling runner at third.

Skateboard artist at Randhurst

Skitch Hitchcock, unique skateboard freestyler, will be appearing Friday, April 23 at Wieboldt's in Randhurst from 3 to 5 p.m.

Hitchcock, who placed first in the freestyle competition at the San Diego-World meet recently, will demonstrate some of the maneuvers that have made him a champion.

With a strong background in gymnastics, Hitchcock seems to defy the laws of gravity with the things he can do on a skateboard.

Hitchcock's tour will also stop at the Wieboldt store in Yorktown Shopping Center April 24 from 7 to 9 p.m.; Lincoln Mall from 2 to 4 p.m.; Jefferson Square from 9:30-11:30 a.m. and on April 25 at Ford City from 1 to 4 p.m.

Maine West, GBS tied as darkness takes over

Maine West pitcher Rob Earhart will have a long wait between pitches as he attempts to hurl his teammates to a win over Glenbrook South.

Earhart was masterful Monday against Glenbrook South, striking out 11 while walking only two, but he'll wait to find out if he won the game. With the scored tied at 2-2, the game was suspended because of darkness and will be resumed when the two clubs meet again May 12 at Maine West.

The Warriors from West are 3-2 on the season and also possess two ties, including this one which will remain a tied game in their record until it can be finished.

West broke out on top first with two runs in the third inning. Wayne Wishnew walked, then went to second on a wild pitch, and then was joined on the bases by Matt Serna and Tim Platek, both of whom drew walks.

Glen Watson followed with a bases loaded single to drive in a pair of runs.

John DiBenedeto drove in a pair of runs for Glenbrook South in the fifth when he doubled with two on.

Earhart scattered four hits and will be back on the mound when the two clubs resume the game, which will be played before the teams' next game together.

John Niemann also went the distance on the mound for Glenbrook South, striking out four while walking five in his seven inning stint.

Clean your air conditioner and save some money.

A dirty air conditioner has to work harder. That wastes money.

When your air conditioner is dirty, it has to work harder. That takes more energy. And you end up wasting money. A good periodic cleaning will make your air conditioner more efficient, and will help you save on its operating costs. It's possible to clean most window units in only about 10 minutes. You should check your owner's manual for specific cleaning and maintenance instructions, but in most cases the steps to follow in cleaning are very simple. And the more thoroughly you clean, the more money you'll save.

Vacuum the filter and save a little.

First pull the plug. Then take off the front panel, and carefully remove the filter. You can vacuum it while it's still in place, but it's easier to clean the filter well if you remove it first.

Wash the filter and save a little more.

Your owner's manual will tell you whether the filter in your air conditioner is the kind that can be washed and reused. If it is, you can get the filter even cleaner by first vacuuming it, and then hand washing it in warm water and a gentle detergent. The

Gerry Kern ASSIGNMENT EDITOR

"Perhaps the hardest, yet most satisfying part of an editor's job is to watch that unexpected news event unfold and make certain it is covered properly. But this can't be done single-handedly — a good editor realizes that good reporters are essential."

Gerry Kern is the assignment editor for The Herald of Wheeling, Mount Prospect and Des Plaines. Working out of the Mount Prospect office, Gerry directs local news coverage, assigns stories and does initial editing of news and feature copy.

Before joining The Herald, Gerry was the managing editor of a group of community weeklies in Indianapolis, Ind. He is a 1971 graduate of Indiana University with a bachelor of arts degree in journalism.

In 1974, he received an award from the Indianapolis Metropolitan Community Service Council for his series on busing and school desegregation.

Gerry and his wife, Jewel, are residents of Palatine. In his free time, Gerry likes to dabble in photography and astronomy.
